

Harry Truman Starts Looking For Job To Keep Out Of Mischief

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (P)—Harry S. Truman, welcomed home in roaring receptions that moved him to the verge of tears, began looking for work today lest idleness lead him into "devilment." After nearly eight turbulent years and unprecedented responsibilities at a time of world crisis, he suddenly found himself with nothing to do but unpack and find a job.

Remington Says He Offered To Spy For G-Men

NEW YORK (P)—William W. Remington says he offered to become an informer for the FBI when first approached about his alleged Communist connections. Remington, testifying yesterday at his perjury trial, denied intentionally violating security regulations when he turned over secret government papers to Elizabeth Bentley, a self-admitted Soviet courier.

Later, when authorities approached him, Remington said he wanted to co-operate with the G-men and added: "I knew by this time I had been involved in something I would have given anything to have undone."

Under cross-examination the former government economist, now 35, said he passed over to Miss Bentley wartime papers containing information on plane production and a secret formula for making synthetic rubber out of garbage.

But, said Remington, he thought Miss Bentley was a free-lance writer who was compiling a book and he thought he might become a "big shot" by appearing in the book.

The defendant testified that money he gave Miss Bentley was a "charity" contribution and not Communist party dues.

Remington was convicted of perjury in 1951 for lying to a grand jury about whether he ever was a member of the Communist party.

His present trial stems from alleged perjury in the initial trial. The current five-count indictment includes the accusation that he lied in denying he ever turned over government wartime secrets to Russia.

Remington's conviction in the first trial was set aside by a higher court, which based its reversal on a defective charge by the judge to the jury.

Ex-President Reveals He Ordered Young Ike Home From Korea

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—Who ordered Maj. John Eisenhower home from Korea to see his father in argument as president? The Eisenhowers said they didn't know.

Today, the Chronicle's Washington correspondent reported: Dwight D. Eisenhower learned the answer just before Tuesday's inauguration by asking President Truman:

"Sir, may I ask you a question: Who ordered my boy home from Korea? He's been giving me hell about it."

"I did," Truman said. "Just tell him that contrary old man in the White House did it."

The major was given 15 days home leave.

Panama Wants Rent Raised For Canal

PANAMA, Panama (P)—President Jose Antonio Remon reminded Americans living here last night that his country would like more rent for the Panama Canal Zone than the present $250,000 yearly.

The President, addressing the American Society at a banquet in his honor, said Panama hopes for more "equitable compensations" in return for the "sacrifices and obligations" imposed on her by the canal.

Husband Cuts Wife's Hair; Gets 180 Days

LOS ANGELES (P)—The crew haircut that Mineola Lloyd received is going to be quite expensive for her husband James.

Lloyd was sentenced yesterday to serve 180 days in jail for giving his wife the haircut. She didn't ask for it. Lloyd, arrested on a charge of battery and disturbing the peace, testified his wife had been drinking and running around and he wanted to keep her home.

Senators Advise Wilson To Sell His Stock In GM

WASHINGTON (P)—Some Republican senators have sent word to President Eisenhower that the Senate would probably reject Charles E. Wilson as new defense secretary if he holds on to his stock in his former firm, General Motors.

Indications were that the White House would make a decision within a day or two. Senate leaders insisted they did not know what the decision would be.

Law For 4-Year Terms Proposed

LANSING (P)—Drastic constitutional changes in the terms and manner of electing state officials and Legislators were proposed in the Senate yesterday.

They were sponsored by Senator Creighton R. Coleman (R-Battle Creek), Republican caucus chairman. Coleman's proposals include four-year terms for all persons elected on the state ballot and separation of state and national elections by two years.

He would elect the governor, all elective state officials and members of the Legislature for four year terms starting 1954. All now have two year terms except the state highway commissioner, who serves a four-year term.

"This," Coleman said, "would keep national candidates and issues in one election and state candidates and issues at another election. I propose also to sponsor a change to put all county, city and township elections in the spring, so that those also can be voted on separately."

All these proposals would have to be submitted to a vote of the people.

Burma Army Clashes With Karen Rebels

RANGOON, Burma (P)—Reinforcements were rushed into South Burma by air and river today to counter an expected thrust by Karen rebels toward the important seaport of Moulmein, Burma's third largest city.

The Burmese Army reported yesterday that it had suffered heavy casualties in fighting with Karen troops at Kawkairek on the Thailand border 40 miles east of Moulmein. The Army dispatches said the rebels held more than half of Kawkairek.

The government forces were reported retreating, and observers here said the rebels were planning a thrust at Moulmein.

The battle has been the bloodiest since the Karens revolted in 1948 and demanded a separate state.

Gets $10,000 Job

BALTIMORE (P)—Herbert R. O'Connor, former U. S. senator from Maryland, has been named labor adviser to the city government.

O'Connor, a Democrat who served for a time as chairman of the Senate Crime Committee, will get $10,000 a year in his new post.

Retail Beef Prices Trimmed In Stores

(By The Associated Press)
Retail beef prices, particularly of chuck and rib roasts, were trimmed in many food stores this week. Lamb and veal were irregularly higher and pork was generally unchanged except where loin roasts were reduced as shopping specials.

Chicken prices steadied following declines in the past couple of weeks. Eggs showed little change. Some fresh vegetables moved higher as adverse weather slowed shipments from some growing areas.

Reductions ranged as much as 10 cents a pound on boneless chuck pot roasts, and to 6 cents on prime ribs. Back of these price cuts was a heavier beef supply.

Fate Of Wilson In Defense Post Not Yet Settled

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (P)—President Eisenhower's administration quickened its pace today with eight Cabinet members in office and the new Chief Executive pushing work on his State of the Union message to Congress.

Eisenhower set aside time to go over a fresh draft of the message with a speech-writing aide. The President will go before the Senate and House for the first time to deliver it in person, possibly next week.

Aides said the address will set forth Eisenhower's legislative program in general terms on both domestic and foreign issues.

Capping his first work in the White House, Eisenhower looked on in the East Room of the mansion late yesterday as all but one of his nine choices for Cabinet positions were sworn into office by the Chief Justice Vinson.

The ceremony took place shortly after the Senate confirmed the eight, and also Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, the new federal security administrator. The World War II head of the Women's Army Corps also was sworn in by Vinson.

Secretary of Defense-designate Charles E. Wilson, Eisenhower's choice for the remaining Cabinet post, wasn't on hand because of controversy over legality of his prospective appointment.

Wilson resigned as president of General Motors to take the job but retained 2½ million dollars worth of stock. Because of the stir that touched off in Congress, Eisenhower left Wilson off the list of Cabinet nominees he sent to the Senate for confirmation shortly after he took office Tuesday.

No Change In Choice
James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, declined to comment on reports from the Capitol that the President had decided to select someone else to head the

Georgia Honors Chase S. Osborn

POSSUM LAKE, Ga. (P)—Georgia state and local civic leaders gathered here today to honor the 93rd birthday of Michigan's late Gov. Chase S. Osborn, a long time winter-resident of Georgia.

Headed by Dr. Gordon S. Sumner, a member of the state Legislature, 200 persons gathered at a tree planting ceremony in honor of Osborn and two other former citizens of this community.

Three Magnolia trees were planted in the first arc of what will be a Memorial Circle.

Colonel Robert B. Williamson, Sylvester attorney, related personal memories of the famous Michigan governor. He said Osborn's special genius was his ability to restore a man's "faith in God, in himself, and in his fellow man."

Alaska Miner, 70, Dies Fighting Mad Moose

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (P)—The body of a 70-year-old miner, a dead cow moose and an empty, broken rifle were found on a lonely trail 15 miles north of here yesterday, mute evidence of a bitter woodland battle.

U. S. marshal's deputies theorized that Lawrence Magnusia was attacked by the moose after shooting it, emptied his rifle in an attempt to down the moose, then broke the weapon hitting the animal. Magnusia then died himself, the victim of wounds suffered in the struggle or by a heart attack from exertion.

Magnusia's team of half-wild Malamute dogs were crouched in the snow near the dead moose, upon which they had been feeding.

Digs For Treasure

MEXICO CITY (P)—Elpidio Gonzalez Avila has gone to jail on charges of damaging private property. His landlord said Elpidio dug such a deep hole in the floor of his ground floor apartment that part of a house wall fell in.

Elpidio said he was digging for buried treasure and would pay for the damage when he found the treasure.

Influenza Spreads; Army Uses Vaccine

By The Associated Press
Flu—or what feels like flu—has spread into more than half the 48 states but the outbreaks so far generally have been mild.

The Army, a state university, a steel company and some local officials have taken steps to combat the infections with influenza vaccine.

Three States Hard Hit
A nation-wide survey by the Associated Press showed that the bulk of the cases are in the central part of the nation and that Texas, Tennessee and Arkansas have been particularly hard hit.

Texas reported from 200,000 to 250,000 flu cases. Arkansas had the greatest number of cases of upper respiratory infections in its history. The disease was reaching the epidemic stage in Tennessee.

The Eastern and Western states were comparatively free of outbreaks, although Florida reported some schools closed to prevent the further spread of an influenza-like disease.

Miners Given Shots
The Army is giving flu vaccine to the troops in Korea, Europe and at ports of embarkation for those countries. An outbreak of flu in Bavaria this week resulted in nine deaths at Munich, filled the city's hospitals and closed 27 school rooms.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. announced it is giving flu shots to its 44,000 employees in Pittsburgh; Alliquippa, Pa., and Cleveland mills, at its New York and Michigan ore mines and at various fabricating plants throughout the country. The treatments are voluntary.

Runaway Train Called Sabotage

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Tobey (R-NH) said today the case of the runaway train which crashed into Union Station here "begins to look like sabotage."

Tobey heads a Senate Commerce Committee investigating the wreck, which injured more than 50 persons a week ago today.

The committee yesterday heard two Pennsylvania Railroad employees testify someone may have tampered with the brakes—possibly twice—before the crack Boston-to-Washington train plunged through a wall and into the station concourse. But the train's engineer, H. W. Brower, said he would guess the cause was an obstruction in the brake air line.

Tobey announced the FBI is investigating the possibility of sabotage. He told a reporter its report would not be ready in time for today's hearing.

He did not say upon what evidence he based a personal belief that sabotage was involved.

Pope Pius Confined To Bed With Fever
VATICAN CITY (P)—An attack of influenza and fever confined Pope Pius XII to bed today. All his audiences were suspended temporarily.

The Vatican press office reported that the 77-year-old Pontiff's temperature was about 100 degrees.

He did not celebrate mass in the private chapel of his Vatican apartment this morning as he ordinarily does. His doctor visited him early today.

Lansing Solons Reject Ban On Revised Bible

LANSING (P)—The Senate yesterday cold-shouldered a demand that it condemn the new revised version of the Bible which reportedly has sold 1,500,000 copies in the two months since its publication.

The demand came in a resolution submitted by Senator A. P. Decker (R-Deckererville), who called the new version part of a Communist plot to "soften up" the United States for Red domination.

The resolution went to the Senate Business Committee over Decker's objections and members indicated it would be killed there.

The chairman, Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Fenville) declared "the Bible a person reads is so closely connected with his religious conscience that the Senate is not the proper place to debate it. Whether one accepts the new version or the St. James version is a matter for each man's conscience and the churches are the place to debate it. There is no one in government who has any right to speak with authority on matters of religion."

Decker's resolution, co-sponsored by Senator Charles F. Feenstra (R-Grand Rapids), alleged the new version was authorized by a "warped and prejudiced scholarship" and "undermines the basic principles of the divinely inspired word of God."

Decker objected most to the use of the words "young woman" in-

Oil Tanker Runs British Blockade

ROME (P)—The snub-nosed old Italian tanker Mirella headed home through the Persian Gulf today with a 5,000 tons of Iranian oil in a new try at running the British blockade on petroleum sales by Iran.

Successful completion of the voyage may bring a head-on collision in Italian courts with Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil Company in a billion-dollar test case of the company's claim to Iran's petroleum riches.

It was the first challenge to the blockade since the tanker Rosemary was stopped at Aden, a British protectorate at the southern end of the Red Sea, with 800 tons—$400,000 worth—of oil purchased from Iran's nationalized oil industry by Italian and Swiss firms.

Britain claims all the oil from the Abadan refinery is the property of AIOC pending settlement of its deadlocked dispute with Iran's government over nationalization of the refinery and other of the company's vast holdings in Iran. A British court at Aden ruled Jan. 9 that the Rosemary's cargo belonged to AIOC but the ship's captain and the oil companies which chartered her plan an appeal.

Crimes Fewer In 1952, City Police Report

There was a "substantial reduction" in the number of crimes in Escanaba last year compared to the figures for 1951, Safety Director Glen S. Leonard reported today.

Offenses committed last year included 46 burglaries, 259 bicycle thefts, 42 auto thefts, and 241 thefts or articles valued at less than $50, the report shows. One hundred and nineteen of the offenses were cleared by arrest.

This compares to 118 reported burglaries and 63 auto thefts in 1951.

Lesser offenses in the city in 1952 totaled 846, 202 less than was reported in 1951. All of the offenses were cleared by arrest in 1952.

Opposes Trend

Of the 846 offenses occurring last year 22 were simple assaults, 30 were bad checks, 12 were offenses against family and children, 106 were intoxicated persons, 85 were prowlers, 133 were malicious mischief, and the remainder were miscellaneous offenses.

"So far as statistics within the city can be significant, it appears that the trend of fewer offenses in Escanaba does not follow a national trend, which indicates that crimes are increasing," Leonard reported.

The number of offenses cleared by arrest has increased in the city within the past year.

Police recovered 27 stolen automobiles and 216 stolen bicycles last year. Property stolen during the year was valued at $10,667, of which $5,331 was recovered and returned to owners. The value figure does not include the stolen cars.

In clearing the 530 offenses the police arrested 243 adult males, 12 adult females, and 205 juveniles were contacted by officers.

Citizens Can Help

Safety Director Leonard said that the record can be improved in 1953 and the loss of money due to criminal activity can be held to a minimum if citizens will practice the following precautions:

- 1—Remove keys and lock the doors of your car each time you leave it.
- 2—Promptly report all attempts to break into your buildings.
- 3—Obtain licenses for bicycles to facilitate police search and recovery; report thefts immediately.
- 4—Report all thefts as soon as possible so recovered property can be returned to its rightful owner.
- 5—Demand positive identification before cashing checks.
- 6—Keep shades drawn to discourage prowlers and immediately report prowlers to the police.

Additional reports covering other major phases of police operation in 1952 are being prepared and will be released soon, the safety director said.

Highways Can Make Use Of Atomic Energy, U. P. Road Engineers Told

Bryant W. Pocock, research engineer of the Michigan Highway Department, detailed possible applications of atomic energy research to practical highway problems in an address yesterday to the 1953 district field meeting of Upper Peninsula highway engineers, at the courthouse.

Approximately 100 men heard Pocock predict that the day may come when small nuclear reactors spaced at intervals along U. S. 2 will keep that highway free of snow and ice all winter.

This was the most spectacular of Pocock's suggestions, but there were others of more immediate promise. Typical was his suggestion of the use of radioisotopes to photograph the insides of solid objects. This will provide a guide to the soundness of structures, and will show whether or not they have been cracked, he said.

The radioactivity of certain isotopes makes it possible to keep track of their whereabouts without affecting the isotopes in any way, he noted. Thus a problem could be solved with transmutated concrete, where it is desired to determine exactly how many revolutions are required for adequate mixing. The presence of a radioactive isotope in the mix would make it possible to answer this question by noting the revolutions required to produce constant activity throughout the mix, the speaker said.

Handling Isotopes

Last summer Pocock went to the Atomic Energy Commission's development in Oak Ridge, Tenn., for a four week course in how to handle radioactive isotopes. Permission to obtain the isotopes is difficult to obtain and anyone who wishes to do so must first take the AEC's course. If you want isotopes, you must satisfy the AEC that you know enough about them so that you won't endanger yourself or your neighbors, Pocock explained.

A number of other features shared the spotlight during the afternoon session. The meeting served as a general airing of problems which have faced the different sections of the highway department during the past year. Complaints were freely aired and suggestions made.

Millar Fleming, a field survey chief, spoke of difficulties in the field. "All our work is done on snowshoes" in some sections of the Upper Peninsula, he said. Often notes and records are inaccurate and the crew will dig in the snow for a culvert only to find when they have removed all the snow that their notes are faulty and there is no culvert there. He asked all workers to prepare notes and records with greater care.

State Officials Attend

R. A. McCormick, host district engineer, presided over the opening moments of the meeting, after which he turned the rostrum over to Carl A. Weber, road engineer. Weber introduced several division heads from Lansing, who gave short talks surveying recent developments in their divisions. These were C. H. Cash, road construction engineer; R. R. Havens, assistant to the special assignment engineer; R. F. Durfee, assistant materials engineer; and M. J. Walker, personnel director. E. A. Bellenbaum, route location engineer, and Lawrence Laird, a road construction engineer, presided over the group discussion of survey and construction topics. Laird introduced Joseph Cavanaugh and Matt Tunturi, road project engineers, and Percy Walker, instrument man on road construction projects, who gave short talks.

The conference continued this morning, ending at noon. Discussion of technical problems dominated the session. Cash, Bellenbaum and Weber presided over various discussions. P. E. Plambeck, of the design office in Lansing, spoke on problems of his office. Roy Greenman, assistant to the road construction engineer, gave a talk on different methods used in the construction of roads.

Mr. Carlson, of the Conservation Department, spoke briefly to the group about the Michigan State Employees Association.

He was born July 3, 1890, in Wallace, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Harvey, and he came to Escanaba with his parents as a child.

He was a member of St. Patrick's parish and also was affiliated with the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Plan Benefit For Albert Kay Family

The Bay de Noc Grange, Stonington, is sponsoring a benefit social which will be given for the Albert Kay family at 7:30 p. m., Sunday, Jan. 25, at Trinity Lutheran church at Stonington.

John and Norma Kay, children of Albert Kay of Stonington, were drowned recently when the car in which they were riding plunged into open water near Gladstone. The benefit committee of the Grange expressed the hope that "through the social the community may be of some material help to Mr. Kay," and that many persons will attend and make contributions.

The program will include speakers and movies. Lunch will be served.

The benefit committee of the Grange arranging the social comprises Raymond Sundstrom, chairman; Mrs. Wilmer Larsen, Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, Urban G. Steinmetz and Peder Pedersen.

Liberty Bell Beam 100 Years Old But Still In Good Health

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Two wood doctors gave a physical examination to the aged but prominent chunk of wood which supports America's famed Liberty Bell Wednesday.

The verdict: "It's doing fine." More than 100 years old, the massive beam carries the full weight of the bell's 2,080 pounds. The bell hangs in Independence Hall in downtown Philadelphia.

Dr. B. Francis Kukachka and Alan D. Freas, of the U. S. Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, Wis., devoted a half hour to a minute inspection with slide rule and microscope. They decided the beam will hold up under many more years of strain.

Varied Program At Meeting Of Rock Lions Club

ROCK—At a ladies night supper meeting of the Rock Lions Club held Monday a varied program and good food contributed to a successful entertaining evening. Light entertainment prevailed throughout the supper as tail twisters Cliff Carlson and Ernie Fosterling indulged in some good natured humor. Frank Campbell, toastmaster, lead the group singing prior to introducing the guests. Dave Williamson provided the piano accompaniment.

H. T. Brewer of Gladstone, guest speaker, gave a promotion talk on a county hospital which may be erected in Gladstone in the future. Mr. Brewer, who is chairman of the hospital committee, emphasized the need for this establishment in Delta county are only 34 per cent adequate—but explained that funds naturally were the greatest obstacle. $250,000 is the present goal set for a fund raising campaign in Delta County—the state would meet this figure with a same amount.

Because all the smaller communities would also benefit by this hospital, Mr. Brewer asked the local organizations give consideration to a program for the purpose of raising funds. A committee organized to check carefully into this matter has met with state officials. However no definite action can be taken until a hospital authority committee, which would include representatives of clubs and groups from the various localities in Delta County, is organized.

Following Mr. Brewer's informative talk the charter members of the Rock Lions Club were honored.

Lion Art Goulais of Escanaba was introduced and after speaking briefly to the members and guests,

Hiccough Kills Babies In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, (AP)—A new drug is being flown from Sweden in response to press reports that a hiccough epidemic in Recife has killed 55 infants in two weeks, but state health authorities deny the outbreak.

The mysterious malady, said to affect only infants under 1 year old, was reported this week by the Rio de Janeiro newspaper O Globo.

However, Pernambuco State Health Secretary Arthur Coutinho said only eight infants—a normal number—had died in the past two weeks in the Recife suburb where the disease was reported. Recife is on the coast 1,100 miles north-east of Rio de Janeiro.

In Sweden, Yves Gylden, managing director of the Astra Chemical Company, read reports of the outbreak and offered the Brazilian envoy in Stockholm a supply of a drug developed recently by two Swedish doctors. The offer was accepted, and 2,000 doses were loaded on a plane for Brazil yesterday.

Hearing Tests
Tuesday, Jan. 20, 1953 pupils 4th through the 12th grade had a hearing screening test. Of this number only 18 had to be re-screened.

The testing was done by Mrs. Grabowsky of Menominee and Mrs. Poorman a supervisor from the State Health Department. Barbara Johnson and Beverly La-Coursiere assisted the testers.

In the near future Mrs. Poorman will return to give individual hearing tests on a chemical pure tone audiometer to those children who were screened out in this preliminary testing. At this time she will test kindergarten, first, second, and third graders who have difficulties or who have had ear trouble in the past.

The Faithorn school children came over to Hermansville and were tested with our children.

Local school boards pay for the travel expense and for the tester. The rest is paid by the state and county health departments.

Snag On Wilson Confirmation Is Major Problem For Eisenhower

THE snag that has developed in confirming Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defense creates a problem of no small consequence for the new Eisenhower administration.

There is no doubt that Wilson is an excellent choice for the important position. He has had invaluable experience as head of one of the world's great industrial companies, experience that could be of tremendous benefit to him and to the nation in the big role as chief of the defense department.

But before Wilson can be confirmed, he will either have to back down on his determination to retain the benefits of his General Motors stock and his GM pension or the Senate rule for confirmation of cabinet appointees will have to be changed. The rule, of course, is designed to permit cabinet officers to reach decisions in the public interest objectively, without any opportunity for personal benefit.

Obviously the rule is a good one and has a useful and logical purpose. How it can be stretched to meet the present situation and still permit Mr. Wilson to hold his 2 1/2 million dollars in GM stock poses a real problem.

Mr. Wilson certainly was in error when he said that he would insist upon his right to deal for the government with General Motors in any matters that may come up within his department, even while holding GM stock of this magnitude. The integrity of Mr. Wilson is not the point in dispute here, but there is a matter of principle involved that cannot be easily sidestepped.

Looking at the situation from Mr. Wilson's viewpoint, it is not difficult to see why he would hesitate to surrender the benefits of his GM stock or his GM pension in order to serve his country at a salary far less than he was earning in private industry. It is a tremendous sacrifice for him to make, particularly since the tenure of cabinet jobs has not been enduring.

Reds Are Fearful Of A-Bombs

WHILE the sober thinkers around the world are unanimously opposed to using the A-bomb in warfare, fearful of its terrible destruction, the weapon may be effective in bringing peace simply by being available.

High U. S. military officials say the threat of the A-bomb has slowed down the Communists in Korea, and has undoubtedly delayed or postponed any idea of the Reds making a massed attack in order to end the war. It is also said they are no longer constructing buildings for military purposes, lest they be destroyed by a bomb attack.

Instead they have burrowed underground to a depth of eight or ten feet, with only gun muzzles showing. The Reds seem to be taking it for granted the bombs will be forthcoming, and have spread out and dug in. Several members of Congress are urging the use of A-bombs as a quick way to peace. The news, of course, has reached Korea, prompting a change in tactics on part of the enemy.

This will all be checked up to Eisenhower as commander-in-chief of the nation's armed forces. He has said pressure on the Communists must be increased. We cannot continue present conditions indefinitely. If it takes a few A-bombs to do the job then A-bombs it will be, regardless of the consequences.

Study In Contrast

A strange anachronism appeared in the newspapers the other day, along with pictures of shiny new 1953 model automobiles equipped with every improvement except self-filling gasoline tanks. It was a picture of a Texas rancher posed in his new buggy.

He doesn't like gas buggies, the story said, and the crossroads merchant near his ranch had quite a time locating a new buggy for him. Did it, though. A little factory in Indiana still makes them, it seems. Happy driving, Old Timer. And here's hoping you escape demolition while enjoying the delights of escapist transportation.

PEACE PRAYERS (See Evening News)

News comes from a New York village that daily prayers for peace will be offered every morning at eleven o'clock. Factory whistles will blow and the townfolks will bow their heads in a moment of silent, sincere prayer for peace around the world.

The faith of these people is an example that could be copied by towns all over America. Scapies may scoff, disillusioned people may turn away, but the simple act of faith is a monument of the high ideals of the human race. It emphasizes the fact that peace is the most desired thing. Not conquest, not suppression, not war and bloodshed is the aim, but peace and the opportunity to live for the good of one another.

Certainly prayer gives a lift to the human spirit.

Surgery Offers Good Chance Of Permanent Rupture Cure

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

A rupture, or hernia, is caused by some of the soft tissues of the body bulging through the wall or covering which is supposed to keep them in place. It is most common in the groin.

Most hernias occur through weak places which nature has not built any too well. A rupture also can develop through the scar of an old operation or place which has been weakened by injury.

One method of treatment is to try to keep the contents in place and support the weakened wall by means of a support or truss. This is fairly satisfactory for some people, especially elderly people and those who do not have to engage in heavy exertion. The value of a truss or support also depends to a large extent on where the rupture is located, as well as its size.

With modern methods of surgery, it is possible in most cases to put the soft tis-ues, such as the intestines, back where they belong and to repair the wall so strongly that they are kept in place permanently.

Constant improvement in surgical methods has made the chances for permanent cure better and better. The likelihood of a recurrence is thus much less than it used to be.

SCAR TISSUE FORMED

Mr. M. has recently asked about the injection treatment for hernia. The purpose of this method is to irritate the tissues surrounding the hernia so that a thick scar will form at the point where the hernia is bulging. The presence of this scar is supposed to force the contents of the hernial sac back where they belong.

A good deal was written on this form of treatment several years back, but as a rule it requires several treatments and the scar tissue does not always do what it is supposed to do. For such reasons comparatively few physicians are now using injection treatments for hernia, and it seems that surgery is usually to be preferred.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Here is how the policies and plans of the Eisenhower administration begin to look as it tackles one of the most momentous political change-overs in history.

Foreign Policy—It's becoming apparent that the new President is going to keep his hands closely on foreign policy, and that his new Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, will be kept busy abroad as a foreign-policy salesman . . . Ike will operate the State Department through two trusted friends: General "Beetle" Smith, his old chief of staff in Europe, now Undersecretary of State; and Douglas MacArthur II, counselor of the State Department. MacArthur is a nephew of General MacArthur but disagrees with him, and a son-in-law of Vice President Alben Barkley. As political adviser to Ike at SHAPE, the two became warm friends . . . Dulles will make another trip to the Far East after this month's mission to Europe, will be absent from Washington frequently . . . Eisenhower himself, however, may take a trip to Europe this spring—if necessary. This is a precedent-making prospect for a new President, but Ike is worried over the bogged-down condition of the proposed United European Army, fears it may take extracurricular pressure to get France and Germany to sign. If Dulles can't manage it on his current trip, Eisenhower may make a special pilgrimage in March.

Is Dewey Next?—Patronage, the political fodder on which every party needs, is still making the Taft wing of the GOP most unhappy. They aren't advertising it, but what they really fear is a little man now licking his chops in Albany. For some time they feared him as the prospective Republican candidate for President in 1956, and Ike's recent remark about Dewey's great future didn't make them any less fearful . . . what really irks the Taftites is not the actual men appointed by Eisenhower, but the fact that Dewey's close friend, Herbert Brownell, is dishing out the jobs . . . real fact is that Brownell is picking good men, and screening them well. But few of them are Taft men. Meanwhile Dewey's turn-down of a chance to be Ike's Secretary of State and his (ostensible) aloofness from Washington convinces Taftites that the little man in Albany is merely biding his time—with Ike's blessing—until 1956.

New Cabinet—The cabinet member who has made the best impression so far is new Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey. Unlike Charles E. Wilson, Humphrey has gone about his new job as if the nation was doing him a great honor. He has picked a good staff, admits he has a lot to learn, looks as if he would learn fast . . . new Secretary of the Navy Robert Anderson also has made a favorable impression. He's been getting ribbed as to how much a Texas cattleman knows about battleships, but he's considered a good bet to best the admirals—who always try to wrap their civilian boss round their finger—and usually succeed . . . (Anderson, a Texas oilman, is going to be embarrassed by the fact that tideland oil is now a naval reserve under him.)

Crime Busting—Attorney General Brownell, who's also made a good impression—except among the Taftites—has picked one of the top crime-busters of the nation, Warren Olney, to head his criminal division . . . Olney was head of the California Crime Commission, secretly came to Washington four years ago to urge the Treasury to prosecute big-shot California gamblers for tax evasion. However, Dan Bolich, then deputy tax collector, since indicted, stopped Olney's move dead in its tracks . . . Olney will be able to take over a red hot federal grand jury in Miami which has a dragnet out for 60 of the top gangsters in the U. S.

Secretary of Defense—What embarrasses Republicans Charles E. Wilson's confirmation is the battle they themselves put up against Democrat Ed Pauley to be Undersecretary of the Navy and Carl Igenfritz as head of the Munitions Board. Pauley was vetoed because he is an oilman and would be in charge of naval oil reserves. Igenfritz was barred because as Vice-president of U. S. Steel he would receive a salary of $70,000 . . . it was the Republicans who led the moves to bar them. Michigan's Senator Ferguson on May 14, 1951, speaking against Igenfritz made this statement which he would now like to forget: "what if this were the president of General Motors?"

Public Lands—After the tideland oil row is over, a move will start to transfer all other public lands to about a dozen Western states . . . the move will come from Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska, who has the transfer legislation written and ready to roll . . . Theory behind this is that if Texas, Louisiana and California are to get the public lands off their coastline, then the Western states should get the public lands inside their borders. This means forest reserves, oil and mineral reserves . . . this is likely to set off one of the biggest scrambles by oil companies, mining interests, and cattlemen since gold rush days . . . it will also run into vigorous Senate opposition . . . Senator Butler has already tipped his hand by permitting three wool, oil, and mining lobbyists inside his interior committee during the confidential hearings on Douglas McKay's confirmation as Secretary of the Interior. The public was barred, but the three lobbyists admitted . . . when GOP Sen. Hiram Bingham of Connecticut did this in the Hoover administration he has reprimanded by a vote of the full Senate and defeated for re-election.

Yarn For 'Queen's Purple' Robe Was Spun By 50,000 Silk Worms

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

LONDON—(NEA)—Thousands of people in England already are busy preparing for what will be recorded next June in their country's history as the most splendid coronation of all times.

The crowning of a sovereign is always a sensational event. But this time every man, woman and child in Britain is taking a deep-felt, affectionate interest in it because the Queen is a young woman whom they have followed since her birth and the first Queen to be crowned since Victoria.

Elizabeth II is beloved of her people because she has convinced them that she is not only beautiful but courageous and deeply conscious of her duties, in spite of her youth. Furthermore, she is the daughter of a sovereign who died at his task, the wife of a prince charming and the mother of two beautiful children.

The robes of state which the Queen will wear when she is crowned on June 2 will be the most fabulous yet seen in Westminster Abbey.

Fifty thousand silkworms have provided the yarn for the 20 yards of the richest silk velvet known as the "Queen's Purple" which will fashion her trailing robe and the satin for the gown she will wear beneath it.

Both will be all-British and both will be encrusted with the most gorgeous embroidery ever executed by the Royal School of Needlework and representing the Royal Insignia.

The raw silk has been produced on Zoe, Lady Hart Dyke's silk farm at Lullingstone in Kent. Started 20 years ago, the farm supplied bolts of silk for the coronation robes of George VI and the Queen Mother.

Big worry of middle-aged Miss Lilly Lee, who will soon go to work at the Warner mills at Braintree, Essex, is that "my knife doesn't slip." Her job is hand-weaving the 20 yards of velvet for the Queen's coronation robe.

So just in case of mishap, Mrs. Hilda Calver will weave a duplicate length of 20 yards. Both are skilled craftsmen in the hand-weaving of silk velvet.

The silk has to be looped over a slatted wire and cut by hand. The two women cannot produce more than 18 inches a day, so it will take three months to complete the yardages. A director of the mills says "their task will be one of the utmost responsibility. The knife has only to slip once and the whole thing is ruined."

Nobody knows what style dress the Queen will elect to wear under her purple robes. It must necessarily be a formal evening gown with a deep decollete to permit of the ceremony of Anointing and also to set off the magnificent crown jewels she will wear.

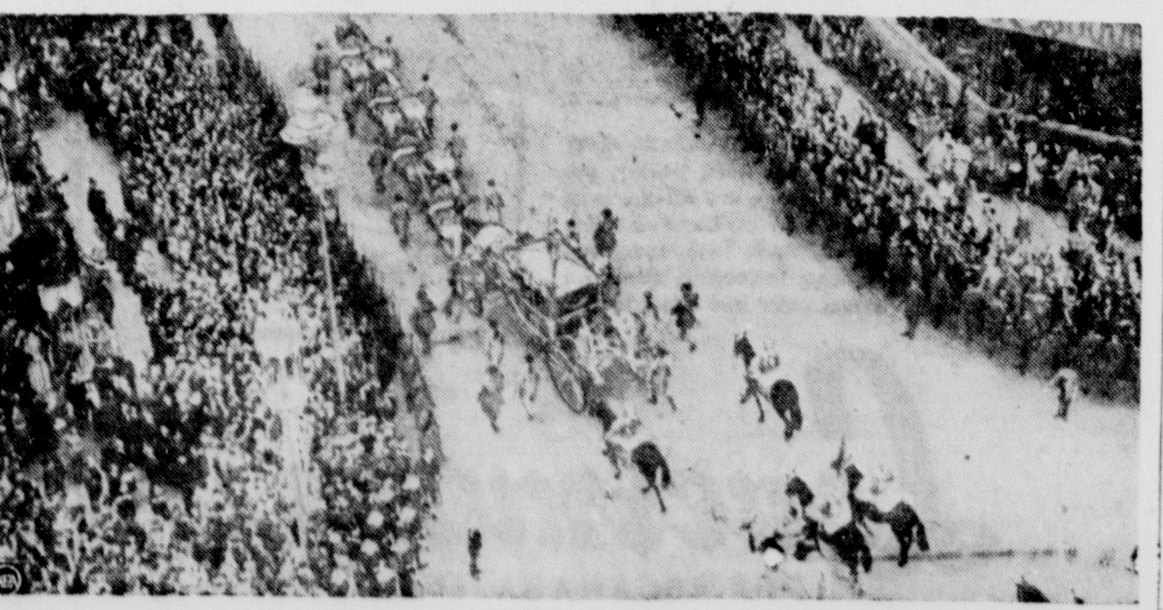

It is presumed that Royal Dressmaker Norman Hartnell will be entrusted with the making of the coronation robes.

According to the office of the Earl Marshal the Duke of Norfolk it has as yet not been decided what headdress the Queen will wear to the coronation. If she follows the example of her father, she would wear a Cap of State of purple velvet edged with ermine.

Nine youths of noble birth will be appointed to carry the Queen's train. Four peeresses have to be chosen to hold a pall of cloth of gold over the Queen when she is anointed with the Holy Oil.

This precious oil usually is made in sufficient quantities to last several coronations. But the reserve supply was destroyed by bombs during the war and the Queen's chemists have been commanded to make more.

THOUSAND-YE.-R-OLD CEREMONY at which Elizabeth will be crowned Queen of England includes spectacular procession from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey and back again. Here England's last coronation procession, in 1937, passes through Parliament Square.

SEASON IN REVERSE—Although it appears that each time I comment about the unseasonably fine weather it changes for the worse, we will risk it once more. Should it storm tomorrow you will know the reason.

Nevertheless it must be reported that Charles Nelson of 738 Michigan Ave., Manistique, also is of the opinion that the weatherman has been more than ordinarily kind this winter.

"I have read that some people have picked flowers in their yards this winter, some have seen robins, and that the ducks are going north in January. We have noted some unusual weather signs here in Manistique, too," he writes.

"We have found daisies blooming under the snow, and birds that should now be in the South are still with us. One Brown Thrasher has been feeding here since Jan. 12, this year. We have also noted three Cardinals, four Juncos, two White-throated Sparrows, one Song Sparrow, 12 Evening Grosbeaks."

"Is this a sign of an early spring or a mild winter?" he wonders.

FLOWERS THAT BLOOM—From Wausau, Wis., comes a letter from Mrs. Lydia Wicking Anderson, a former resident of the Flat Rock near Escanaba, whose father was prominent in the early-day civic and religious life of this community.

She reports that while on a motor tour of Door County on Nov. 15 she encountered many signs of spring. At Ephraim, where summer homes had been closed for the winter, "geraniums and nasturtiums were blooming in boxes on the stone fences, while other flowers could be seen in the back yards." At Sister Bay they saw petunias blossoming.

On a nostalgic note Mrs. Anderson recalls some of the early happenings at Flat Rock.

"I've seen many sawmill towns in Wisconsin and Oregon, but I will never forget the beauty of Flat Rock."

She promises to write about the community life of Flat Rock in the old days, as well as Garth, which she also knew.

THE EAVESDROPPER—A friend of mine tells me of an incident in one Escanaba home not so many nights ago, when the wife was host to her bridge club and her husband played eavesdropper—with a wire recorder!

The microphone was hidden in the living room and the husband let the machine run for an hour, while the ladies discussed—between passing and bidding game in spades—the faults of husbands.

Later in the evening the husband asked if the ladies would like to be entertained while they ate lunch. He played the flexible wire back through the machine and the wives had the unusual experience of hearing themselves as others would have heard them.

P. S.—The recording was erased after the one play-back.

CATCHING THE BUGS—There were 53 false alarms turned in from fire alarm boxes in Escanaba last year. This is far too many for a city of Escanaba's population, in the opinion of Fire Captains Nels Bergeon and Clarence Schrader.

It is interesting to note that the number of false alarms being received declined sharply after the Escanaba Police Department found a way to cope with the problem. The story can now be told.

The fire alarm boxes were given a light coating of a phosphorescent material. Any hand that touched the alarm box would glow bright yellow when exposed to the beams of black light, even if the hand had been repeatedly washed with soap and water.

One grown man was apprehended and proof of his guilt established by this method. He pleaded guilty and paid a substantial fine.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

One rarely has occasion to express greater mental pleasure than by the word—enchanting. And it may be used for almost anything that excites pleasure. We can say that a person has an enchanting manner, an enchanting voice, an evening or an entertainment has been enchanting, or a scene may be enchanting.

Of course, the ancient meaning of enchant is still found in our word enchantment, sorcery or witchcraft, or in enchantress, a witch. So there is still an element of witchery, of being cast under a spell, which is carried by pleasures that we describe as enchanting.

This is true to an even greater extent in delights or pleasures that we call entrancing. One who is entranced is, literally, thrown into a trance, thrown in to a condition of ecstasy. Ordinarily we don't use the term quite so literally, but entrancing music, an entrancing scene, or entrancing beauty does imply a degree of pleasure or delight that is almost overpowering.

Each of the words is used to denote mental pleasures, however not physical. It would be absurd to speak of an enchanting bath, or an entrancing meal, or an entrancing beverage. They are used only of such things as impress the mind.

Mamie's Tears Affect Othman

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
WASHINGTON — The gents with the crowbars are ripping up the inaugural stands, the hawkers are wondering what to do with the 25-cent hot dogs still unsold, and I'm contemplating a little weeping that went on during Ike's biggest moment. Big, salt tears. Mamie's and mine.

Up in front of the capitol, I mean, where the Marine Band tooted, an Indian in leather pants and way feathers somehow got into the press box, and a little man advertising something or other tried to give away ear muffs oaring his message.

A warm sun was glistening on the big bass horns, upon which untold gallons of brass polish obviously had been lavished, and there was no market for free ear warmers. There must have been 10,000 people jammed into the Capitol Plaza and they sat there with their hats off and coats open, waiting for Ike.

There wasn't a top hat in the place, either. Mostly the bigwigs wore black Homburgs, like Ike's. Mostly they also wore striped trousers and short black coats, as did the new President. Only four coats I spotted were on the backs of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Sen. William Langer of North Dakota, and the leader of the Defiance, Ohio, college's co-ed choir.

Pride And Tears

There was Mr. Truman looking grim and his good Bess appearing happy. There also was Mrs. Eisenhower, in a gray suit, a gray hat, and spray of red and white flowers pinned to her mink coat. Several times she babbled at her eyes with her handkerchief.

Some said she had a cold, perhaps she did, but she looked to me like a wife almost overcome with pride. Twelve noon arrived and the mighty mass of humanity was hushed. Only sound came from a pair of Navy dirigibles buzzing overhead.

Then there was a cheer, muffled as if inside a box, coming from the doors leading to the Capitol rotunda. It was in eerie sound, but it indicated Ike was on the way. The color guard came up with the waving flags.

"Lower them flags," roared a bitter photographer. The folks, including Mr. Truman and his wife, laughed. Dick Nixon, the Veep, got sworn in. Then our new President, bare-headed, sober and in good voice, began to recite after the Chief Justice:

Kiss For Mamie

"I, Dwight D. Eisenhower, do solemnly swear . . ."

It was a solemn and historic moment for sure. Then the President (scribbles like me can't usually call him Ike any longer) spotted his wife at his right.

He strode to her side, put his arms around her, and kissed her on the cheek.

And there she was, weeping and smiling at the same time. She bit her lip, dried her eyes, and soon composed herself. And here was this reporter Othman, standing up at his pine-plank desk, jotting down notes that are hard to decipher now.

Trouble was a couple of big drops of water splashed on these

Courthouse Custodian Stuck With Starlings

LOVINGTON, N. M., (P)—Jesse Benson figures he'll just have to get a grip on his patience and wait until the horde of starlings leaves.

The normally mild-mannered Courthouse custodian has just had his annual go-round with the Lea County Commission about the pests.

He'll have to bear with the raucous screams of the small, speckled birds until they decide they like some place else better.

The session with the commission started quietly enough.

"Jesse," asked Commissioner Carl Denson, "what have you done about those starlings?"

Jesse rose from his chair, staring at the commission with a glare usually reserved for those who walk on public lawns.

"I've thought about them, I've dreamed about them. And I've called to the Lord about them," Jesse declared.

"Every morning at daylight they leave those trees and I take hope. Then, every evening they return and bring back a lot of friends from West Texas.

"I have come to think that starlings were just created to co-operate with county commissioners in driving custodians crazy.

"We tried shooting them with a shotgun, but you shoot 18 and up in the air go 999,982 live ones, laughing fit to kill. Long after the last shotgun shell in Lea County is fired, we still will have plenty of starlings in those mulberry trees.

"Last year we tried Roman candles. They got used to them, and now I think they bring their friends up from old Mexico to see the fireworks."

"How about putting aluminum owls in the trees," Denson asked. "These birds of ours wouldn't be afraid of stainless steel owls," opined Jesse. "I think they got crossed with eagles. They just

Young Safecrackers Surprised In Act

PORTLAND, Ore. (P)—A couple of boys, aged 9 and 10, were surprised recently by a company employee who caught the pair busily trying to break open a safe with hammer and screwdriver.

In their midnight foray in the sporting goods store the boys had originally planned to steal a bow and arrow set but when the safe was spotted they decided to have a crack at it. They claimed the job was masterminded by an "old-timer," a 13-year-old who waited outside.

Tree Planting Major Goal Of Soils District

Major goal of the 1953 program of the Delta County Soil Conservation District will be more tree planting, it was announced following the annual meeting of the District held last night at Cornell Town Hall.

The District's primary goal will continue as before — the best use of each acre of land in the county, according to its ability.

More than 100 persons attended the meeting, which included speakers, a moving picture, the business session, followed by a pot luck supper.

Directors Re-elected
Onni Stimes of Rock and Ed Bergman of Bark River were re-elected directors of the Soil Conservation District. The directors who hold over are Clayton Ford, Robert Watchorn and Anthony Purzol. Bergman has served as District chairman.

The Soil Conservation District was organized as a local unit of government in May, 1950 and it is under the supervision of a board of directors elected by the land owners in the county.

Objectives of the Soil Conservation District include the following: Control of soil erosion, maintenance of soil fertility, adequate farm drainage, reforestation of non-agricultural lands, improvement of present woodlots, and to impress upon the general public the importance of soil conservation.

Achievements Cited
Assistance is offered to farmers and other land owners in Delta county on programs of soil survey, best land use, development of crop rotations, engineering help on drainage problems, development of windbreaks and woodlots, obtaining tree planting stock at nominal cost, farm layout assistance.

In the period since it was established the District has conducted soil surveys on 21,390 acres, 12.1 miles of grass waterways, 8.3 miles of drainage ditches, 130 acres of bedding, 88 acres of strip cropping, 2,994 acres of woodland management, and 1,069 acres of contour cultivation with the cooperation of land owners.

Expressions of appreciation were voiced by the District board of directors to County Agricultural Agent J. L. Heirman, who acts as secretary, Tom Hughes, District technician, H. R. Heathman and other officers of the Soil Conservation Service.

of whom had been waiting for hours.

Home For Good

"I appreciate this reception," he told them. "It's magnificent. There's not any more I can say except that we are back home for good."

Another throng of 1,500 waited in the street when the Trumans drove up to their big, white frame home on North Delaware, and there were more cheers and demands for a speech.

Truman was deeply touched at the depot when Mayor Robert Weatherford Jr. told him, "You'll always be Mr. President to us."

"I can't tell you how much I appreciate this reception," he said, his voice breaking. "I never expected anything like this. Therefore, it is closer to my heart."

But his inevitable humor came to his rescue. "I am in the army of the unemployed," he said. And then, talking again like the Democratic campaigner of "give 'em hell" fame who credits the employment situation to party policies, he couldn't resist adding, "but it is a very small army."

Mt. Clemens Woman Admits Pose As WAF To Get Free Air Trip

DETROIT (AP)—An attractive woman architect faced a possible prison sentence after pleading guilty to masquerading as a WAF to get a free ride to Minneapolis on an air force plane.

Mrs. Elizabeth Anna Nordquist, 32, of Mt. Clemens, admitted when arraigned Thursday before Federal Judge Frank A. Picard that she got a plane liberty pass to get the plane ride.

An Air Force Captain and three service women were named as co-conspirators but not defendants. They were identified as Capt. Harold G. Chamberlain, Airman 3-c Susie Ledford, 21, Airman 3-c Betty Liles, and Airman 2-c Jerry Jerry Andre, all of Selfridge Air Force Base.

Mrs. Nordquist, who has a divorce suit pending, said she was a friend of Miss Ledford's. She said the WAF member mentioned she was flying to Minneapolis over the weekend.

They flew to Minneapolis Saturday and came back Sunday afternoon. On the return trip an Air Force security officer questioned Mrs. Nordquist's credentials.

She faces a maximum possible penalty of a prison sentence of the charge of conspiring to use false documents.

Smith said Capt. Chamberlain's name was drawn into the case because he overheard the women discussing it in a bar near Selfridge Field but made no report to authorities.

He and the three WAFs face possible court martial.

Former Flint Mayor May Be Freed Of His Old Gambling Charge

MT. CLEMENS (AP)—A gambling conspiracy charge which has been hanging over the head of former Flint mayor William H. McKeighan for more than six years may be lifted Tuesday.

A hearing will be held then on Prosecutor Fred Nicholson's petition to dismiss the charge.

McKeighan was one of a number of persons indicted by Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke's one-man grand jury on Aug. 1, 1946. He was accused of "buying protection" from law officers for gambling establishments run by Danny Sullivan, Lincoln Fitzgerald and Mert Wertheimer.

Witnesses Dead

While the other cases were being disposed of, the state has tried unsuccessfully to return McKeighan from Florida to stand trial.

But Nicholson, in his petition, said McKeighan was too ill with a heart ailment to stand a trip from Florida. He described the one-time Republican power as being in "the twilight of life."

Besides, Nicholson said, the alleged offenses occurred 12 years ago and some witnesses have died and others would not be able to remember details.

Worry over facing trial, Nicholson said, "would materially shorten his McKeighan's life."

The hearing will be before circuit Judge Alton H. Noe. Judge Dehnke said it would be improper for him to express his opinion on the case while it is pending.

Troopers Serve Terms

Sullivan, Fitzgerald and Wertheimer paid fines in the case. So did former machine operator Arthur P. Suave and former deputy sheriff Lewis Burt.

Former prosecutor Ivan Johnston was acquitted of conspiracy charges and prosecution of bribery charges was dropped.

Another former prosecutor, Wilbur F. Held, was convicted of conspiracy and the decision overruled. He is awaiting a new trial.

The late Capt. Lawrence E. Lyon and former Sgt. Leslie Maycock of the State Police both served prison terms.

Convictions Bag 44 Big U. S. Reds

NEW YORK (AP)—The government today could count 44 Communist bigwigs knocked out of party activity in this country through convictions on conspiracy charges.

They are among 87 who have been convicted here, in Los Angeles and in Baltimore, Md.

Forty-one others under indictment—including seven who are fugitives from justice—still are to be tried. Two others won court-directed acquittals.

Seven are awaiting trial in Honolulu. Six are scheduled to go on trial next month in Pittsburgh. Indictments were returned recently against seven in Seattle, six in Detroit and five in St. Louis.

All of the cases are under the 1940 Smith Act, and accuse the Red United States government by force and violence.

Reds Charge B-29 Shot Down Violated Yalu River Border

(By The Associated Press)
TOKYO (AP)—Red China's No. 2 boss charged today that a U. S. B-29 Superfort violated Manchurian skies Jan. 12 and was shot down by Communist night fighters.

U. S. Far East Air Forces confirmed the loss of the bomber but asserted it was 12 to 15 miles inside North Korea—well below the Yalu River boundary of Manchuria—when crippled.

Crewmen Captured
The Reds alleged the B29 was shot down nine miles northwest of Antung, big Communist airbase across the Yalu from Northwestern Korea.

Peiping radio broadcast the charge and an angry protest by Red China's Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En-lai. It quoted him as saying 11 crewmen, including a colonel and a major, were captured and that three other crewmen "died after parachuting."

Chou is second only to Mao Tse-tung in the Chinese Communist regime.

Carried No Bombs
The Air Force said the B29 in question "was on a regularly scheduled mission dropping psychological warfare news leaflets over North Korean cities" on the night of Jan. 12.

"The aircraft was plotted and followed throughout its flight by friendly radar stations," said the announcement. "When over a town approximately 12 to 15 miles south of the Yalu River, the B29 'plot' merged on the radar screens with the plots of 12 hostile fighter aircraft."

"It disappeared from radar contact immediately with the fighter plots. The B29 carried no high-explosive bombs. A normal B29 crew of 14 officers and airmen were aboard."

Benson Planning Big Overhauling

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, in his first official act, regrouped Agriculture Department agencies to secure "better and more effective coordination."

This regrouping, he said, is the forerunner of a "gradual streamlining" of the department designed to bring about economy and greater efficiency.

In announcing the changes in a formal statement, the new GOP administration farm chief took a jab at the size to which his Democratic predecessors had built the department.

"The U. S. Department of Agriculture, largest of all the nation's civilian agencies, swollen into a huge bureaucracy of 20 agencies and bureaus in the last 20 years, is getting a major overhauling," the statement said.

In a separate memorandum to department employees the new secretary served notice he would expect them to give a "full day's work for a day's pay."

The department agencies and bureaus were divided into four major groups, with the office of solicitor maintaining its present independent status.

Today's action in itself did not have the effect of reducing the number of employees or of eliminating any of the department's present activities.

Fate Of Secretary Of Defense Post Not Yet Settled

Defense Department. Hagerty had said earlier, however, that there was no change in Eisenhower's intention to press for approval of Wilson.

Eisenhower was reported eager to get his full Cabinet on the job and about ready to disclose just what his course will be regarding the defense post.

After witnessing the swearing-in of the eight other Cabinet officers, Eisenhower had a quiet dinner at the White House with his wife and family members who came to Washington for the inauguration.

Although he got only five hours of sleep before turning up at his desk at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, he remarked cheerily near the end of the day that he wasn't tired.

Appears Chipper
"I feel fine," he told a reporter who got in a question after another swearing-in ceremony at the White House. That one gave official status to seven aides on Eisenhower's personal staff, including his top assistant, former Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire.

The ceremony for the aides gave newsmen their first chance to see the new President behind his desk. He looked as chipper as he said he felt, and the desk in the green-tinted oval office had been cleared of the many mementoes and souvenirs which crowded it when Harry S. Truman was president.

There was one reminder of Truman in plain sight, however—a slim, leather-bound volume inscribed in gilt letters, "Building America's Health." That is the title of a report recently made by a commission Truman appointed to study the nation's health problems.

Guests For Chicken
On the surface, the White House yesterday looked pretty much the same place it was under the Democrats. There were new faces, yes, but the routine of business appeared to go on in the familiar way.

So did the social life. Mrs. Eisenhower, even before she had had time to explore the White House thoroughly, held a reception for 281 Republican women leaders.

The President had callers too, but not that many. Governors Dan Thornton of Colorado and Walter Kohler Jr. of Wisconsin, for example, came in for fried chicken lunch.

Kohler and Thornton said they discussed with Eisenhower the whole relationship of state and federal governments, and stressed a need to avoid duplication—especially in the field of taxation.

Philipino Tires

MANILLA (AP)—The Philippines will start manufacturing automobile tires early in 1953. Hermogenes Jacinto, vice-president of Jacinto Rubber and Plastics Inc., announced his concern would set up a $500,000 tire-producing plant. American and Japanese technicians will serve as advisers. Jacinto said $100,000 worth of equipment purchased in the United States is en route for the new plant.

Chinese Fishermen Tangle With Reds

By FRED HAMPSON
HONG KONG (AP)—The South China fishing junks are now embroiled with the Communists.

Up to a few months ago the Chinese Reds left the fisherfolk alone. The fishermen, as rugged a collection of individualists as the globe can produce, went about their trade in their ancient craft and sold their product in their ancient manner.

Then the Communists had to obey their dogma of changing things. They issued a set of rules for fishermen which shook the industry to its keel.

Boats Are Homes
For one thing the Reds decreed that "dependents of fishermen are not to live aboard junks but are to be provided homes by the (Communist) fishermen's association."

Some Get Shot
As to selling through a government-controlled association, the fisherman long has been victimized by buyers who corner the market. The fisherman has learned to cope with the buyers and still get enough to keep his sails patched and himself alive.

What was the result of the Red makeover in an ancient industry? There have been various forms of resistance and sabotage. Several hundred junks escaped to Hong Kong and Macau waters and try to ply their trade for the colonies.

Thousands of fishermen are trying to make out under the new rules. Many have been arrested, shot or sent to labor camps and their boats confiscated.

Others are attempting to reach Formosa, although that market is limited, like Macau and Hong Kong.

Congressional Quiz

By Congressional Quarterly

1. Q—I understand that Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) will almost certainly be majority floor leader in the new Senate. Exactly what will be his duties in this post?

A—As the name implies, he acts as leader for the party controlling the Senate. Another role, usually, has been to carry the legislative ball for the President on the floor of the Senate. In the past the floor leader has held weekly conferences with the President to keep tab on his legislative wishes. He also conveys to the President the views of the other Senators on various measures gained at least partly through consultation with the policy committee. The floor leader makes formal motions, helps plan the course of debate and often allots time of speaking among members of his party and determines the order of speaking. Along with the minority leader, he contributes toward the decision of when debate shall be closed and a vote taken.

2. Q—Do Senator Taft and the other members of his party usually vote the same way on major issues?

A—Here is Sen. Taft's Party Unity record as compiled by Congressional Quarterly (the percentage of time he voted with the majority of Republicans when they voted against a majority of Democrats in the Senate):

Party Unity
79th Congress	92%
80th Congress	94%
81st Congress	82%
82nd Congress	90%

Q—Exactly what is patronage?

A—In the political sense, the power to make appointments to office, especially when not governed by civil service law or rules; also the power to grant contracts and various special favors.

4. Q—How big is the patronage plum held by President-elect Eisenhower and the Congress?

A—The new President and Republican Congress will control distribution of 2,000 or more federal patronage jobs as a direct result of the changes in party control. In Congress, about 850 jobs are under party patronage, although additional thousands are employed in offices of individual Members. Throughout the nation, only a small proportion of the army of federal employees is not under civil service or some other system planned to offer job security.

Better methods of increasing soil fertility have diminished the need for clearing new lands for crop production and pasture. Thus, timber crops can be grown on the less fertile and rougher portions of the farm producing an additional revenue and making full use of all the land on the farm.

CONTROVERSIAL SCARF—Scottish Nationalist Wendy Wood, above, wears one of the souvenir coronation scarves imprinted with the legend "Elizabeth I Queen of Scots," which has touched off controversy in Scotland. Nationalists claim that union of the crowns of England and Scotland occurred after the rule of the first Elizabeth. Wendy wore the scarf deep in "enemy" territory when she appeared at a Nationalist meeting in London.

How Farm Price Support Works

By CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON (CQ)—Should farm prices be supported at a high or a low level?

This is the question for which the 83rd Congress may have to find an answer. It involves the most basic part of the farm program—the "floors" which help insure farmers against agricultural depression.

Price support now is mandatory for the "basic" commodities. They are corn, cotton, wheat, tobacco, rice and peanuts. It also applies to "designated non-basics" such as wool, mohair, tung nuts, honey, Irish potatoes, milk and butterfat. Support for other products is permissive at the discretion of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Methods of support vary with different products. One technique involves non-recourse loans. This means that producers are not obligated to make good any loss involved in a decline in the market price of the commodity put up as collateral.

For example, the grower who gets a loan on his wheat at the support price of $1.95 per bushel does not have to pay off his loan if the market price of wheat at the time the loan matures is only $1.85. Instead, he delivers his wheat to the Commodity Credit Corporation and discharges his loan in full.

Loans are made on storable commodities such as wheat, cotton and tobacco.

Supports by CCC Purchases

Another method of support is outright purchase by the CCC. This supports prices in two ways: (1) By providing the farmer with an outlet for the commodity at the support price; and (2) by boosting the general price level of the product through removing excess supplies from the market. This is used for potatoes, eggs, dairy products, wool and some other products.

A third method of support is the purchase agreement. This assures the grower the support price for his commodity at the close of the marketing season. These agreements are made available to producers of hay and pasture grass seeds and, as an alternative to loans, to growers of corn, wheat, oats and some other crops.

Under present law the basic crops are supported at 90 per cent parity, while the designated non-basic commodities must be supported at levels ranging from 60 to 90 per cent.

Parity Formula

Parity involves a complicated formula designed to give the farmer a fair return on his crops in relation to his purchasing power. The parity price of any product is that which will give it the same purchasing power as it had during a given base period in terms of (1) prices of things farmers buy; (2) interest on mortgage indebtedness;

Gulliver

GULLIVER—News has been received here of the birth of a daughter, Barbara Kaye, to Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ziegler of San Diego, Calif., Jan. 3. Mrs. Ziegler is the former Dolores Massy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Massey, former residents of Gulliver.

The Gulliver Community Planning Club will sponsor a bake sale Saturday, Jan. 24, at 10 a. m. at Klagstad's Grocery, for the polio drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence LaFave are in Chicago on business.

Mrs. William Durno is a surgical patient in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario. Her condition is reported as favorable.

(3) taxes on farm real estate; and (4) wage rates for hired labor.

Two base periods are now used in combination for computing parity prices. Officials take into consideration price relationships in the period 1909-14, as well as those for the most recent 10 years.

The farm organizations—particularly the American Farm Bureau Federation—feel that this parity method is too complicated and unwieldy. They urge adoption of a simpler formula.

Society Urges GOP Damper On Cocktail Binges In Washington

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Theodore McKeldin will address a temperance mass meeting in Washington tomorrow to urge the new Republican administration to "put the damper on Washington's famous cocktail parties."

Sponsoring the meeting is the American Temperance Society. Since McKeldin took office in 1951 no alcoholic drinks have been served in the Governor's Mansion at Annapolis.

Teacher Seeks Old Students For Party

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Ten years ago the pupils in the seventh and eighth grades at Rosslyn Farms Elementary School presented their teacher, Miss Nellie Oliver, with a $25 savings bond.

Miss Oliver accepted the present and told the class: "I won't cash it until it matures, then we'll have a party." Now the bond has matured and Miss Oliver, who retired recently after 37 years of school work, is trying to get the 21 former pupils together.

"It's more difficult than I expected," she says. "I try to mail invitations and find such addresses as Army Post Office, Korea or Germany. I just didn't stop to think of all the things that could happen in 10 years."

The party is going to be a real-

Science Listens To Space In Studying Cosmic Rays

WASHINGTON—Probing air's outermost edge for atomic particles hurtling in from space is much like sounding the utmost depths of the seas.

Scientists in both cases work by remote control, their "eyes" and "ears" suspended miles away in the cold silences of great height or depth where man himself has never gone.

One such research program, which sent trains of drifting balloons 20 miles high over Hudson Bay, is described by Dr. Martin A. Pomerantz, leader of the National Geographic Society-Bartol Research Foundation Cosmic Ray Expeditions, in the January, 1953, National Geographic Magazine.

Stratosphere Telegraph Key
Dr. Pomerantz spent two summers in the Canadian sub-Arctic at Churchill, Manitoba, tracking down secrets of mysterious missiles from outer space, the invisible but vastly powerful cosmic rays.

Sending balloon-hitched Geiger counters to heights of more than 100,000 feet, where 99 per cent of the earth's air blanket lay below, the team of physicists donned ear-phones and listened for automatic radio signals from the sky.

The sounds came in an unevenly spaced metallic pulse—"z-s-t, z-s-t, zls-t"—like the spark of an old-fashioned radio-telegraph key. Each buzz was triggered by a cosmic ray which had traveled for thousands or even millions of years, and which finally had struck the earth's atmosphere at an angle that sent it through all four of the expedition's vertically-mounted instruments.

Not even suspected 50 years ago, and unidentified until after World War II, cosmic rays today form one of the most exciting new frontiers of science. They are known to be actual atomic particles pelting the earth from all directions at terrific speeds. So great is their energy that they shoot right through the bodies of all human beings, and penetrate everything else as well, without noticeable effect either good or bad.

Atoms and the Universe
Cosmic rays hold the key to many secrets of the tiny atom and the vast universe. The research at Churchill formed only one part of a world-wide attack on these secrets now being pressed by scientists of many nations. Such rays are being studied on the tops of high mountains, on other balloon flights, and with rockets that carry detecting instruments 80 miles high and more.

Dr. Pomerantz himself is now in India, continuing the program of cosmic ray studies sponsored since 1935 by the National Geographic Society and the Bartol Research Foundation of Philadelphia's Franklin Institute.

As a Fulbright Scholar at Muslim University in Aligarh, India, Dr. Pomerantz and Indian scientists are sending cosmic ray instruments to great altitudes above the Indian subcontinent, over a 23-degree range of latitude.

The balloon trains, chains of plastic spheres which gleam as they drift through the sky, have brought reports of "flying saucers" from mystified spotters on the

Rub-A-Dub-Dub, Lady Worries About Tub

LUCKY LAD takes a bath in a genuine bathtub. Industrial designer Freda Diamond, a semi-pro bathtub worrier, says a whole generation is growing up "that will never have taken a bath."

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEW YORK (NEA) — Miss Freda Diamond, a tall, good-looking woman, sits at her modernistic desk, sucks hard candy and worries about bathtubs.
She's not a bathtub-worrier by profession, of course. She's an industrial designer, and a talented and successful one. But the sad plight of the bathtub concerns her mightily. Perhaps you hadn't realized just how bad things are with the tub.
"It's the only household fixture," says Miss Diamond, popping a cherry drop in her mouth, "whose designers are fast asleep."
It seems that the basic, functional design of the poor old tub hasn't changed for centuries. Nowadays, it comes in many colors and a few odd shapes, but if you want to dunk yourself you still do it the same old way.

And, says Miss Diamond, there are many things that could be done to make the bathtub a more efficient dunking device. For one thing, she says, why not stick a built-in spray on the tub, like on the kitchen sink? It would come in handy for rinsing, and also for washing the tub.
For another thing, why not put two drains in, instead of one? Two drains would mean the tub would empty faster. And there are other bathtub betterments bating around Miss Diamond's brain, but she won't divulge them.
Miss Diamond is a shower gal herself—something to do with the fast tempo of modern living, she says—but she sympathizes with the sit-and-soak set. And she also has a few sympathetic thoughts for the younger generation.

She reasons like this: most new homes going up today have two bathrooms. In one, the one adjacent to the master bedroom, there is a bathtub. In the other, there is a stall shower. That's the usual system.
"Naturally," says Miss Diamond, helping herself to an orange drop, "the adults get the master bedroom and, consequently, the bathtub. The children get the stall shower."
"There's a whole generation growing up that will never have taken a bath."
In most fields of industrial design, Miss Diamond says, the practical precedes the decorative. In stoves, for example, designers created better practical cooking devices first. Then the decorative stylists took over, making the stove look prettier.
"But it's just the opposite with the tub," she says. "The stylists are doing all right—new colors, new designs. But, practically, the bathtub hasn't advanced since they put running water in it."
Perhaps you've always felt your tub was perfectly dandy the way it is; a good place to get clean, wash storm windows and make gin. But let your imagination wander a little, like Miss Diamond's does, and a great, big wonderful world of bathtubs opens up.

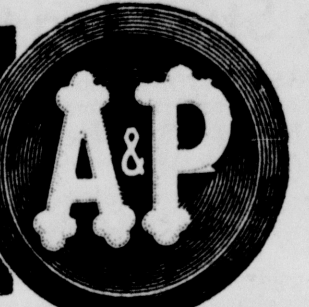

Indebted Railroad Seeks U. S. Aid

MANILA (AP)—The government-owned Manila Railroad Co., only rail service in the Philippines, has hung "For Sale" tags on some of its properties in an effort to get out of the red and qualify for United States aid. Estimated indebtedness of the company is 20 million dollars, mostly payable to British stockholders.
The U. S. Mutual Security Agency has said the road must liquidate its debts before it can receive aid for rehabilitation. Company directors decided to auction the road's non-essential property, which includes the plush Manila Hotel and certain lands.

Report Of G. M. Profits Withheld, Says Pearson

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—While Senators were considering the qualifications of General Motors' Charles E. Wilson to be Secretary of Defense, they suddenly discovered that one of their own committees had made an important investigation of General Motors in 1951 and that the report had been suppressed.

The suppression was done by Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, now Democratic leader of the Senate, who has been chairman of the Armed Services subcommittee charged with probing military waste.

What concerns Senators who have learned about the report is that it is highly critical of General Motors for overcharging the government and putting the squeeze on the Air Force.

It bluntly charges General Motors with "taking advantage of an emergency situation to reap exorbitant profits from the government." Going into details, Senate probes told how General Motors had charged the Air Force a 39.8 per cent profit on the manufacture of jet engines; how the Air Force complained of this high profit but the manager of G. M. 7s Allison Division replied that he had to keep his profits high so he and his associates could receive a bonus.

Senators recall that it was the question of Charles E. Wilson's G. M. retirement bonus of $380,000 a year which he will draw as Secretary of Defense, which caused part of his confirmation trouble.

Air Force Protests

The suppressed Senate report also told how G. M. profits were so high that the Air Force tried to get General Electric to manufacture jet engines instead; but G. E.'s production line was loaded down.

Senators can't help comparing this with Wilson's testimony last week that "what's good for General Motors is good for the United States."

The report also exposed petty corruption among G. M. executives. For example, one of the biggest subcontractors—Huber, Hunt, and Nicholas—built homes at cost for G. M. executives in order to get their business.

When Senate investigators got too hot on the trail, General Motors did its best to block the probe.

"The attorney assigned to the case, E. V. Gilliland, placed every obstacle in the path of the investigators," states the Senate report. "They were not given much requested information, they were not permitted to examine relevant books and records, and they were not permitted to interrogate employees of the company during working hours unless in the presence of a General Motors attorney. In addition, when facts were uncovered which showed possible guilt on the part of employees, Gilliland made efforts to cover up for them."

General Motors claimed, according to the suppressed Senate report, that it actually made only 13 per cent profit on sales to the government. This failed to take into account, however, "millions of dollars of facilities" owned by the government but used by General Motors, the report points out. The Allison Division alone utilized approximately $42,000,000 worth of government-owned plants and machinery.

"Thus, General Motors in 1948 realized a return of approximately 39.7 per cent on the average capital invested by its stockholders in the Allison and A. C. Sparkplug divisions, of which 39.8 per cent was realized in the production of jet engines and 36.2 per cent in the production of aircraft sparkplugs," the report explains.

Would Wilson Change This?

The Air Force described its efforts to get a better deal in a blunt statement to Senate investigators. "On numerous occasions, the air material command has requested a reduced profit rate from the (Allison Division) and has been told by Mr. Newell, (the general manager) that if Allison didn't receive the profit requested, Allison was not interested in the government's business," the Air Force reported. "In view of Mr. Newell's statement, headquarters has considered transferring contracts for J33 and J35 engines to another source, such as General Electric. This company was contacted on numerous occasions, but they have refused to bid, stating that in view of the fact that their schedule is so large on J47 engines, they would not consider going into production on either the J33 and J35 engine."

The Air Force also pointed out that the government had already furnished Allison with $42,000,000 worth of government facilities, that no other company with the proper know-how was available, and that the "delivery schedule would be set back for an indefinite period."

"The Milwaukee operation is being performed in 100 per cent government-owned facilities with all government-owned tools and equipment being utilized," the Air Force added. "In spite of this fact, General Motors corporation has insisted on 11.1 per cent profit on sales, which appears to be a rather excessive amount when it is considered that the facilities in the way of building and machine tools are actually being furnished to them."

Senators are now wondering whether the Air Force would dare to leap to the taxpayers' defense and write such a caustic report if General Motors boss Charles Wilson were secretary of defense.

Thieves Strip Cabbie In One Clean Sweep

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—Not only did his two youthful fares holdup the cab driver, they also took every stith of his clothing, including his false teeth and $20 of his own money, both of which were stuffed in his clothes. The cabbie went to a nearby back door and tapped on a window. The housewife, averting her eyes, handed him a burlap sack, exchanged later for a bathrobe. A short time later a police prowler found the abandoned cab containing the clothes, the hidden $20 bill—and the false teeth.

While the staff never hopes to get gift packages and delivery of flowers straightened out, they're taking no chances with the babies. Baby James, left, wears one identification bracelet, and baby Linda Marie, right, wears two.

Average Senator Passes Vote Once In Five Chances

By CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY WASHINGTON (CQ)—That "fifth vote"—the one a Senator usually doesn't cast—occasionally may be vital in the Senate of the new 83rd Congress.

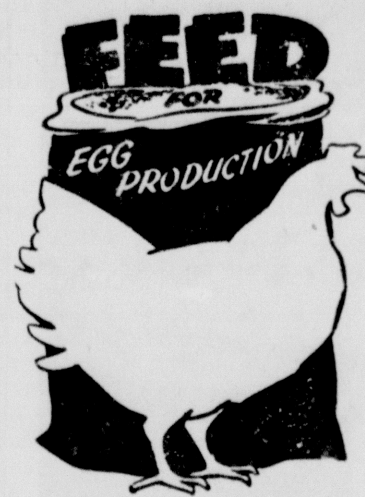

In the last Congress, the average Senator voted on about four of every five of his opportunities, thus passed up about 20 per cent—actually, 20.70—of his chances to vote, according to Congressional Quarterly. In the new Senate, there are 48 Republicans and 47 Democrats, so the GOP "margin of control," if expressed in percentage, is about 1.05 per cent.

Thus, the last Senate's percentage for failing to vote was about 20 times the Republican margin of control in the new Senate.

The House of the 82nd Congress had a higher percentage of voting than the Senate—a lower percentage of failure to vote—and the GOP's present margin of control is greater, at 2.31 per cent. Even so, the percentage of failure to vote in the last House was about seven and a half times the present GOP margin of House control.

Neither party has a corner on absenteeism, however. Where "lost" votes might be important on specific issues, CQ pointed out that over the entire 82nd Congress failure to vote averaged about the same for both parties.

Two-Centuries-Old Paris Firm Makes Tiaras For Coronation

For the coming coronation, the House of Chaumet in Paris shows this slender double - circlet tiara. It's made of 39 large, round diamonds totaling 100 carats. They are mounted on rows of baguette diamonds. Necklace is four graduated rows of diamonds. In background is a museum collection of 100 coronets and tiaras created by the firm over a period of 200 years.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS—(NEA)—Parisians are becoming coronet-conscious. Jewelers in the Rue de la Paix and the Place Vendôme are showing modern versions of both coronets and tiaras that will be worn by the lucky guests attending the coronation ceremonies in Westminster Abbey next June.

The House of Chaumet, on the Place Vendôme, has been making coronets, tiaras and other "heirlooms" for most of the crowned heads of Europe for almost 200 years.

In a room on the first floor, the firm has a collection of over 1000 models featuring every style of coronet and tiara. These range from the high, ornate affairs created for the Russian empresses to the slender Empire circlets worn by the ladies of Josephine's court.

It was Chaumet who made three "parures" or sets of jewels on the occasion of Napoleon's marriage to Marie-Louise of Austria. One of these was in diamonds and rubies. A second was diamonds and emeralds and the third, diamonds and opals. A "parure" then consisted of a diadem, necklace, earrings, bracelets and comb.

Pierre Chaumet and his brother (who runs the London branch of this famous firm) represent the fifth generation of the family. They recall the time when their father travelled twice a year to Russia to submit ideas to the czar. They're proud of the fact that many of their clients today represent a fifth generation of patronage.

Referring to their unique collection of coronets, Pierre Chaumet explains:

"Most of these pieces were bought back by us in the course of two world wars, with the gradual disappearance of European kings and queens. Most private families who owned such heirlooms had them broken up and reset as wedding presents for a daughter or for a son's wife.

"Today, no woman would think of buying a diadem. She wants a jewel that will serve two purposes, if only because the opportunities to wear a single jewel are rare.

Tastes, too, have changed. The modern jewel-loving woman feels that all-diamond pieces are more effective and chic. But 30 years ago, her mother liked color combinations with her diamonds.

For the coming coronation, Chaumet's are showing diamond necklaces that have minute hooks at the back. These are made to hook onto rigid tiaras in white gold. Wives of diplomats, foreign nobility and officials generally are coming in for advice as to how their jewels can be converted for this highly colorful and dramatic event.

Margareta Kinnon Is Bride, Wedding In Detroit Church

Miss Margareta Jane Kinnon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kinnon, 505 S. 13th St., Escanaba, was united in marriage to Robert Lincoln Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Jackson of Dearborn, in a ceremony solemnized Saturday afternoon, Jan. 17, at Mount Olive Lutheran Church, Esper Ave., Detroit.

The bride was given in marriage by her father in a double ring ceremony at which the Rev. H. A. Mueller officiated.

The church altar was decorated with white gladiolus and lighted with white candles for the service. Mr. J. Bornsholt, organist, played a prelude of bridal music as the guests were assembling. The processional organ music was the traditional Bridal Chorus from Wagner's "Lohengrin" and the recessional, Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Bride in Ivory Taffeta

The bride was attired in a waltz length gown of antique ivory taffeta with a fitted bodice, off-the-shoulder neckline and long, tapering sleeves. The bodice and sleeves were adorned with rows of tiny taffeta covered buttons. Her small half-hat was of matching taffeta with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion. A strand of pearls, the bridegroom's gift, was her jewelry. She carried a white prayer book with white orchids and ivy showers with hyacinth.

The matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. John B. Whitmore, wore a waltz length gown of turquoise velvet with off-the-shoulder neckline and cap sleeves. Her headpiece was of matching velvet. She carried a modern bouquet of maroon carnations and rubrum lilies. The bridesmaids, Miss Ann Joyce Kinnon, another sister of the bride, and Miss Carolyn Jackson, a sister of the bridegroom, wore gowns and headpieces identical to that of the matron of honor. They carried modern bouquets of maroon carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, William Jackson, as best man. The ushers were Albert Kinnon Jr., brother of the bride, and Thomas Shelton, a close friend of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Jackson wore aqua crepe with lace trim, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Rosa Stout, grandmother of the bridegroom, was attired in a light green crepe dress. Matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations completed her ensemble.

The reception for 150 guests was held at the Dearborn Inn, Dearborn, from 2 to 4 p. m. The four-tiered wedding cake was surrounded by flowers and tapers. Appropriate organ music was played during the reception.

When the newlyweds left on their honeymoon trip the bride was wearing a fitted gray wool flannel suit with a matching cushioned brim toque, black accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Rice Calas Is Creole Dessert

JUDGING Louisiana's rice cookery was the recent job of Gaynor Maddox, NEA Food Editor, shown with two assistants.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

When a retired schoolteacher, born in Illinois, wins a first prize in a Creole cooking contest, that's kitchen news. Well, as senior judge at the International Rice Festival at Crowley, La., I felt hard for the rice calas prepared by Miss Bess Milliken.

Two associate judges, Betty Mitchell of Mobile, Ala., and Mary McMeekin of Louisville, Ky., agreed with my choice.

Bess Milliken's Rice Calas

One cup sugar, 1 cup rice, cooked soft, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs, 2 cups flour, fat to fry.

Mix egg yolks with sugar, rice and baking powder and flour. Add well-beaten whites, stirring just enough to blend. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat (365 degrees F.). Fry for about 3 minutes. Drain and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

We gave second prize to Miss J. Marie Milliken for her rice-date dessert and third prize to Mrs. Dorsey C. Martin for her tropical rice dessert. Have a good time yourself preparing these recipes.

Miss Milliken's Rice-Date Dessert (Serves 6)

One-third cup heavy cream 1/3 cup crushed pineapple, 1/4 cup chopped dates, 3/4 cup cooked rice, cold.

Whip the cream. Fold it into the rice with the other ingredients, tossing lightly together with two forks. Place in refrigerator for at least one hour before serving.

Mrs. Martin's Tropical Rice Dessert

Two cups boiled rice, 1 cup whipped cream, 1 cup chopped apple, 8 cherries, quartered, 1 cup cubed pineapple, 2 dozen marshmallows, quartered, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup shredded coconut. The rice should be cooked until it is soft but not mushy. Mix all the ingredients except the whipped cream into rice. Add whipped cream into mixture just before serving. Garnish with cherries. Sprinkle coconut over top.

Nancy B. Thomas Guest Speaker At Club Meeting

Mrs. Nancy B. Thomas, librarian of Carnegie Public Library, addressed a near capacity audience at the Escanaba Woman's Club meeting Wednesday afternoon at Westminster Hall, First Presbyterian Church, on the topic of various trends in present day literature.

Mrs. Thomas, who possesses charm of manner and a faculty of holding the close attention of her listeners, told first of the revolution in publishing and explained how the increase in the price of current literature has necessitated production of books in paper covers which places them in a price range which everyone can meet. She referred to the Wonderful World of Books which contains a list of books which may be purchased for as little as 25 and 35 cents.

Books On Religion

She noted the trend of authors in appeal on the same subject, such as western and mystery stories, stories about women, the amusement world and biography. She cited as outstanding in reader interest, "The Giant", the story of Texas, "Give the Lady What She Wants", the history of Marshall Field's, and "The Big Chance". "Today, however," Mrs. Thomas said, "religion seems to have taken precedence with nearly 12,000 published books on religion. Culture too is in the foreground with an increase in the demand for books on music and arts. Books on public relations also are receiving their share of attention."

Business Meeting

Interesting review and notations on books may be found in "The Saturday Review of Literature. Mrs. Thomas told the club women, in closing her talk.

Mrs. John Anthony, club president, presided at a short business meeting at which chairmen of committees presented reports.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. William Harrison and her committee served a tea. Miss Josephine Ryan and Mrs. Joseph Embs poured.

Armed Runaways Sought In U. P.

Four armed South Milwaukee runaway youths, who stopped at a local service station Tuesday evening, were being sought yesterday in the eastern Upper Peninsula, it was reported last night by Michigan state police here.

The youths, riding in a green Buick bearing Wisconsin license plates D76832, were reported by South Milwaukee police to be armed with two revolvers. One of them is a girl under 17 years.

Robert Hewitt, of Hewitt Bros. service station, reported to local state police at 8:55 p. m. Tuesday that three young men and a girl in a green Buick with Wisconsin plates had stopped at his station for gasoline that evening.

He told police he became suspicious when they asked for a road map and hid something hurriedly under blankets back of the rear seat. He said he thought it was a gun. He also noticed that license plates were wired on and heard one of the youths mention taking a highway that would avoid Wisconsin.

Manistique police said that the same car was reported seen in the city Tuesday afternoon.

South Milwaukee police reported yesterday that the youths were Robert Scholtz, Ronald Yortin, James Martin and Donna Heolena, adding that they were runaways without giving further details. The car was stolen in South Milwaukee.

VFW Supports Camp Proposal

A resolution approving establishment of a prison work camp in the Manistique area was unanimously passed by the local VFW at a meeting Tuesday evening.

In approving the measure the organization also recommended that Mayor Vern C. Linderth take the initiative in convening a public meeting in the near future at which local sentiment on the camp proposal can be ascertained.

The group also recommended that the public meeting be effectively advertised and that the sentiment expressed at the session be considered as reflecting community opinion.

It was also reported at the meeting that Gladstone public schools had contacted the VFW for information on a current school safety patrol scoring program. Manistique state police, it was announced, have also been queried on the project by a community in the western end of the Upper Peninsula.

A safety film in technicolor, "A Day In Court," was shown at the meeting. The film was shown yesterday afternoon at a Manistique high school assembly.

It's the exclusive ingredient FOA-5X—the unique ingredient that keeps filter screens clean. 15 years of Shell research and tests went into the development of FOA-5X. A telephone call will put it to work for you. Only Shell Furnace Oil gives you this "exclusive beat!" And, remember, it costs no more than ordinary heating oils!

Kerney Sees Better Year

Optimism concerning operations at the Manistique Pulp and Paper Company during most of 1953 was expressed by James Kerney Jr., of Trenton, N. J., vice president of the firm, during a talk Tuesday evening at a banquet honoring 25-year-service personnel.

More expended operations, he said, is expected to get underway during the next two months if present plans materialize.

Kerney also congratulated employees, both retired and current, who have worked for the paper company 25 years or more.

In addition to his office with the paper firm Kerney also is editor of the Trenton Times. Other company officials present were Thomas Kerney and Thomas Palmer.

A response in behalf of the 25-year-service group was voiced by Earl Cowman who, with Valentine Klimpf, is the newest member of the select circle.

A message of welcome was given by R. G. Hentshell, mill manager, Rodger Smith, plant superintendent, officiated as toastmaster.

The banquet was held at Hotel Ossawinamakee.

Hentshell reported yesterday that the mill will be closed next week to permit installation of a larger diameter breast roll on the fourdrinier machine.

Form Skating Club Tuesday

Organization of a club to promote various types of skating was completed at a meeting Tuesday evening at the Central park skating house.

A club name and the amount of annual dues will be determined later.

The following officers were elected: President, Wanda LaBar; vice president, Dorothy Selling; secretary-treasurer, Irene Krusic; advisors, Earl H. LeBrasseur and Arthur Allen.

Several adults were present at the meeting in addition to teenagers.

First public activity of the club will be participation of several members in an ice carnival program here Sunday night, it is announced.

Rhee Rejoices

"Your inauguration," Rhee said in a message, "was not only a day of rejoicing to the people of America, but also to the free nations of the world that are struggling against international aggression."

Lions Discuss Camp Proposal

Proposed establishment of a prison work camp in the Cooks area was discussed by members of the Manistique Lions Club Tuesday evening but action favoring or opposing the project was deferred pending further information.

The club voted to invite Fred D. Heltman, secretary of the Top O' Lake Michigan Chamber of Commerce, to present details of the proposal at the next session of the club.

Several club members favored the project, contending that prisoners assigned to the proposed camp would be carefully screened and would either be short-termers imprisoned for relatively minor offenses or prisoners nearing the period of their release.

No men imprisoned for crimes of violence or sex offenses would be assigned to such a camp, it was stated.

Moreover, it was pointed out, the estimated 40 men at such a camp would be carefully controlled and would be used on necessary state work projects in the area, including the enlargement of Indian Lake State Park.

The camping area at the park, it was pointed out, would be more than doubled in about two years time by using prison labor — an achievement which otherwise may require up to 10 years to accomplish. Present park camping area was used last year to capacity and many prospective campers were turned away.

Vern C. Linderth, Manistique's mayor, told the group that numerous letters received by the chamber of commerce indicated that communities where such camps have been located were highly in favor of such work programs, and had no complaints to offer.

The importance of enlarging the Indian Lake park was emphasized by Victor Haas, park manager.

Any hazards involved by establishment of such a camp in this vicinity, it was stated, already exist because a prison work camp has been in operation for some time at the Casino Game Refuge in northern Schoolcraft County. Moreover, if the camp is not stationed near Cooks, it will probably be assigned to another community in this part of the peninsula and would still pose this same problem as far as any escapes are concerned, the club was told.

The fertilizer industry is the largest single consumer of sulphur, taking 44 per cent of the nation's sulphuric acid for the manufacture of superphosphate, phosphoric acid, and ammonium sulfate.

Debaters Speak To Local Lions

A summarization of arguments pro and con on forming the Atlantic Pact nations into a federal union was presented to members of the Manistique Lions Club Tuesday evening by the Manistique high school championship debate squad.

Debaters were introduced by Marvin Frederickson, coach, who emphasized the great amount of practice, work and research necessary in preparing the squad for competition. Because of the time consumed in debate work, he said, only students of high academic standards can successfully compete.

Debaters who presented the federal union message were Laura Pizzala and Jon Schuster, who offered affirmative arguments, and Mary Ella Giovannini and Nicholas Babaladis, who argued the negative side.

The club also discussed attendance at the 1953 International Lions convention in Chicago on July 8, 9, 10 and 11 and heard a preliminary report on plans for the club's annual amateur show.

Art And Morals Separate Spheres

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—The idea of certain critics and biographers that a wild, disorganized or unhappy personal life is necessary for artistic creativity was attacked recently by a professor at the University of California.

Dr. William Frost said there is no simple or inevitable relation between art and morals. They are two separate spheres, he said, in suggesting that esthetic judgments about an artist's work be kept distinct from ethical ones about his life.

Red Stop Signs Favored Over Yellow

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a growing tendency to favor red stop signs over the present yellow color in an effort to cut down motor vehicle accidents, says Harry E. Neal, chairman of the traffic committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials.

South Dakota is the first state to adopt over-all red stop signs. California has been using a red octagon on its stop signs for many years while Illinois is planning to switch to a red stop panel, says Neal.

Art And Morals Separate Spheres

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—The idea of certain critics and biographers that a wild, disorganized or unhappy personal life is necessary for artistic creativity was attacked recently by a professor at the University of California.

Dr. William Frost said there is no simple or inevitable relation between art and morals. They are two separate spheres, he said, in suggesting that esthetic judgments about an artist's work be kept distinct from ethical ones about his life.

Red Stop Signs Favored Over Yellow

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a growing tendency to favor red stop signs over the present yellow color in an effort to cut down motor vehicle accidents, says Harry E. Neal, chairman of the traffic committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials.

South Dakota is the first state to adopt over-all red stop signs. California has been using a red octagon on its stop signs for many years while Illinois is planning to switch to a red stop panel, says Neal.

Hawks Swat Pioneers With 2nd Defeat, 3-1

A record crowd of 1,500 fans jammed the fairgrounds indoor rink last night to see the Escanaba Hawks rise up to haunt the league-leading Portage Lake Pioneers in a nerve-racking Northern Michigan Hockey League clash.

The underdog Hawks pinned a stunning 3-1 loss on the defending league champs, and star goalie Ben Artwich missed a shutout by a minute and a half.

The Hawks were never sharper as they more than matched the veteran Pioneers in every department of the game. And reliable Ben was never greater in the nets.

Spectacular Performance

Time and again the huge crowd roared its thunderous approval as the cool Hawk net-minder turned back blistering Pioneer onslaughts. He stopped the fast ones, the cute ones and the sloppy dribblers. He out-manuevered the Pioneer smoothies and he matched their power shots with brute strength.

In all, Artwich saved 44 goals for the Hawks. His busiest period was the first in which he faced the full fury of Portage Lake's first and second lines and stopped 17 shots. He turned back 14 in the second and 13 in the third.

The Hawks played a sharp, sparkling offensive game by picking on the Pioneers' weaknesses and constantly driving goalward to keep Portage Lake goalie Clyde Berryman off balance. Escanaba fired 37 shots at the big net-minder who turned back 34.

Provo Opens Scoring

Again last night Artwich got help on defense with Mark Olson, Hubert Hamilton, Ed Broughton and George Schultz constantly sniping at the Pioneer wings and center.

Buddy Provo, youthful Escanaba wing who has hit his stride on the ice, opened scoring for the Hawks at 7:55 of the first period. Provo pulled in a pass from Hamilton, stationed at the blue line corner, crossed swiftly in front of the net and fired just off the ice to beat Berryman.

Late in the first period the Hawks were a man short with Broughton drawing a penalty for tripping. The Pioneers turned on the heat with the three Bukovichs—Tony, Mike and Joe—and Jackie and Bernie Ruelle in action. Artwich threw up a solid barrier in front of the nets to stop their best effort.

Lose Broughton

Neither team could score in the second period, although the Hawks lost defenseman Broughton on a 10-minute misconduct. The short-handed Hawks tired noticeably in the late stages of the period but more than held their own in the heavy action.

Jim Ogle, newly acquired Marquette winger, killed the Pioneers in the third period with a pair of goals gained on perfect Hawk teamwork.

His first came at 36 seconds of the final period when he took a pass from Olson directly in front of the net, faked once to draw Berryman's stick and flicked the puck into the corner of the net.

At 8:29 Berryman dejectedly fished another puck out of the mesh after Ogle had blasted in a rebound from Dave Serbinski's stick. Mark Olson also set up that scoring play with a pass from the sideboards.

Fight For Shutout

The Hawks battled furiously to give Artwich a shutout in the late stages of the period, but Portage Lake cashed in at 18:33 when Escanaba was a man short.

Hamilton drew a tripping penalty at 16:45 and again the three Bukovichs and the two Ruelles came out in force. They finally clicked at 18:33 when Tony Bukovich took a pass from Jackie Ruelle and whipped a bullet-like shot that wanged in off the post.

Hawk fans never saw their team play a harder game. Joe Ricci turned in a brilliant forward performance and was a constant threat although he failed to dent the nets.

It was the second victory for Escanaba over Portage Lake this season, and the Pioneers have only those two defeats on their record.

The victory moves Escanaba up into third place in the standings with four wins against five losses. Calumet is in the cellar with three wins, eight defeats. Portage Lake has an 8-2 mark and Marquette a 5-4 record.

Seton Hall Coach Has Many Worries

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J. —Remember the old line, "Stagg fears Purdue," that they used to quote when Amos Alonzo Stagg's Chicago football teams were strong and Purdue's weak?

Well, Honey Russell, coach of the undefeated Seton Hall basketball team, says, "I'd worry if we were playing the Nova Scotia fire department."

The fire laddies, of course, are not among the 12 teams standing between the Hall and a perfect season.

Anything Can Happen

"But anything can happen in basketball, and we could lose all 12 of our remaining games," he insists when you ask if his team, the only major unbeaten club in the nation, can go through without a loss.

"The toughest ones look like Villanova, St. Bonaventure, Siena —they're always tough for us, and our Western trip at the end with Loyola in Chicago, Dayton and Louisville. And I understand Dayton will be pointing for us after we beat them last week."

Russell, always a realist, already has taken steps to guard against his team being affected by its ranking as No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll. With his team scheduled to go after No. 19 against Memphis State tonight, he called the boys together yesterday and told them bluntly, "We want no inflated heads on this squad."

"I gave them examples, and there are lots of them, of how writeups, pictures and so forth can go to your head if you believe all of it."

'Very Lucky'

How has Seton Hall managed to go through without a loss thus far?

"Well, we've been very, very lucky, particularly in several key games, and the kids have never lost their poise," Russell said. "We had to change our whole style of play in one week because we lost Arnie Ring and Jim Ahearn just before the season started."

"With those guys, who are both big and fast, we were going to play strictly fast-break basketball, with no pivot plays and very little outside shooting. But they were declared ineligible because of marks, and we had to shift to pivot plays and outside shooting. And I had to work two new players, Harry Brooks and Harry Cooper, into the lineup."

Hawks Upset Knicks 72-70

(By The Associated Press)

Milwaukee's Hawks, winners of only 12 games all season, upset the New York Knickerbockers, 72-70, Wednesday night in a National Basketball Association doubleheader at Boston. In the second game, the Boston Celtics downed the Fort Wayne Pistons, 94-84. The Rochester Royals defeated the Baltimore Bullets, 89-82, in another league game.

A field goal by George Ratkovic in the final seven seconds gave Milwaukee its victory. New York's Carl Braun had deadlocked the game at 70-70 with 25 seconds remaining.

Boston's Bob Cousy, Easy Ed Macauley and Bill Sharman sparked the Celtics. Cousy scored 29 points, Macauley 22 and Sharman 19, to put the Celtics in a tie with the Syracuse Nationals, eastern division leaders, in games won-and-lost although Boston still trails by 17 percentage points.

Rochester made good on 41 of their 57 free throws, while hitting only 24 field goals to 30 for the Bullets.

In This Corner

With Ray Crandall

Upper Peninsula coaches, school administrators and sports writers are carefully considering the new college football rule on limited substitution. It is possible that the same rule will be adopted by the high school rules makers.

The new substitution rule, replacing free substitution which brought into being "two-platoon" football works as follows: Players removed from the game during the first and third periods may not return to action during those periods. Players pulled out before the last four minutes of the second and fourth periods may go back into the game only in those last four minutes before the half and the end of the game. Players removed during the final four-minute periods of the second and fourth quarters cannot be used again during those periods.

It would seem that the rule change was directed at college levels rather than high school, tying in closely with the recent de-emphasis programs. The new rule will tend to cut down the size of college grid squads, reduce expenses and in some measure may reduce the search for collegiate football specialists.

We don't believe that such a rule would be beneficial in Upper Peninsula high school ranks. In high school football as we know it in the Upper Peninsula there few so-called offensive and defensive specialists. And recruiting of players in high school circles does not enter into the picture.

The old rule allowing free substitution enabled many more youngsters to participate in the sport than would be able to do so under the new rule. Many boys who are not physically equipped to play both offense and defense are able to display their talents in high school football today. And it must be remembered that high school boys do not have the physical maturity of college players who may be able to stand 60 minutes of football.

There is also the danger that coaches will be tempted to leave star players in the game when they are injured or extremely tired. Up until now it has been possible to take a dazed or tired boy out of action for a brief rest. Under the new ruling it is possible that he may be left in there in spite of the heavy going rather than lose him for a vital quarter.

Eskymos, Trojans On Road Trips Friday And Saturday

The Escanaba Eskymos and the St. Joe Trojans both face traveling assignments this weekend with Coach Burt Gustafson's cagers at Ishpeming Friday night and Coach Tom St. Germain's quint at Gwinn Saturday night.

Both games will provide stern tests for the local cagers. Ishpeming, annually one of the best Class B teams in Upper Michigan, has not lost a game this season. The Hematites lead the Great Lakes Conference with four straight wins. Even more impressive is the Ishpeming home court record which Escanaba will be facing. Coach C. C. Watson's Hematites have not lost on their home floor since the 1949 season.

Lost Once

St. Joe will be facing the team which handed the Trojans one of their two regular-season losses last year. Gwinn squeaked by St. Joe on a last-minute basket. The Model Towners, a Class D powerhouse, have lost only one game in eight starts this season. Gwinn plays Friday night at Rock before hosting the Trojans.

St. Germain will give the starting nod Saturday night to John Martineau, Jim Gravelle, Bob Sennedburgh, Dick Cass and one of the following: Dave Hirn, Dick Bryson and Jim Zimmerman.

St. Joe enters the game with seven wins against two losses. In their last start the Trojans fell 55-48 to the Gladstone Braves. Manistique handed them their only other loss while wins have been posted over Sacred Heart, St. Paul, Gladstone, Escanaba, Bark River, Stephenson and Norway.

Longest Win Streak

The Eskymos also have wins over their longest winning streak of the season. Escanaba has won its last three games against Gladstone, Stephenson and Menominee, the last game in an overtime. The Eskymos also have wins over Marinette and Marquette while losing to St. Joe, Ishpeming and Iron Mountain.

Bee teams of both schools will also make the road trips to play preliminary games.

Officials at Gwinn will be Dick Schram of Escanaba and Ray Ranguette of Manistique.

Roberts and Simmons Sign Phillie Pacts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pitcher Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies, a 28-game winner last year, penned a 1953 contract for nearly $40,000 Wednesday.

Another ace hurler for the National League club, southpaw Curt Simmons, signed for a previously agreed sum of $16,000. His record last year was 14-8.

Owner Bob Carpenter of the Phillies said he is counting on them for a total of 50 victories and a possible pennant this year.

season, three of them conference victories, will use his regular starters in both games. Carl Scharstrom and Warren Wilson will be in the forward spots, Bob McNamara at center, and Gary Richards and Paul Hinkson in the guard positions.

The Stephenson game is scheduled for 8:30 in the new gym, preceded by a preliminary slated for 7. Officials will be H. Anderson, of Nahma, and Norman Slough, of Rapid River.

Baseball Player Victim Of Polio

BALBOA, Canala Zone (AP) — Robert A. Ganna, 32, former player with Indianapolis in the American Association, died Wednesday night of polio in Gorgas Hospital an hour before the scheduled arrival of his mother, Mrs. Fred Niche of Lakewood, O.

Ganna, a catcher for the National Brewery team in the Panama Professional League, was placed in an iron lung Saturday.

A Canal Zone policeman when he was not playing, Ganna has been here since 1950. His widow and three-year-old daughter survive.

Harry Stein, head basketball coach at Brandeis U., is also the backfield coach of the football team.

The New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians played before 163,838 fans in 16 games last spring, as part of their annual spring exhibition tour.

Join Greats In Baseball's Hall Of Fame

Dean, Simmons Are Honored

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP)—Dizzy Dean, the last 30-game winner in the majors, and Al Simmons, a 20-year-man with a .334 lifetime batting average, are the 1953 additions to baseball's Hall of Fame.

Once again Bill Terry, former New York Giants' manager-first baseman just missed election by the 10-year veterans of the Baseball Writers Association. Memphis Bill Mitter was seven votes.

Joe DiMaggio, believed a sure thing to make the grade in his first year of eligibility, didn't even come close. The retired Yankee Clipper finished eighth, short 81 votes.

Kept Exclusive
The veteran writers keep the Cooperstown, N. Y., club very exclusive. With a total of 264 writers voting, it took 75 per cent—or 198—to gain the Hall of Fame. On four different years, nobody made it.

Election of Dean and Simmons raises the membership to 64, of whom 27 have been picked by the writers. A special committee, headed by Clark Griffith, Washington owner, selects the old-timers who were not active in the last 25 years.

Dean drew an impressive popular vote of 209 votes, moving past Terry, whom he trailed in last year's voting. Simmons, also behind Terry in 1952, just scraped home by one vote with a total of 199.

"It's pretty doggone nice for an ole Arkansas cotton picker to be up there with those boys," Dean drawled when he heard the news. Simmons, reached at Hialeah race track, chuckled that "it's my lucky day—I just had three straight winners in the races."

Dean A Phenom
The colorful Dean, a radio and television personality since arm trouble forced him out of baseball, was a six-year phenom with the St. Louis Cardinals. In 1934 he had a 30-7 record for the Cards with 179 votes, 12 behind Terry's 191. Rabbit Maranville, the little infielder with the famous basket catch, also was a close up fifth with 174 votes. Dazzy Vance, storied Brooklyn pitching ace, was sixth at 150, with Ted Lyons, ex-Chicago White Sox pitching star, seventh at 139 and DiMaggio's 117 votes giving him eighth position.

Few Surprises
There were few real surprises in the writers' vote except the failure of Terry and DiMaggio to be elected.

Bill Dickey, former Yankee catcher, drew solid support with 179 votes, 12 behind Terry's 191. Rabbit Maranville, the little infielder with the famous basket catch, also was a close up fifth with 174 votes. Dazzy Vance, storied Brooklyn pitching ace, was sixth at 150, with Ted Lyons, ex-Chicago White Sox pitching star, seventh at 139 and DiMaggio's 117 votes giving him eighth position.

Arm Is Key To Garver's Pay

DETROIT (AP)—Baby-faced Ned Garver, if his arm is good, will get a chance to earn the same estimated $25,000 he was paid last year.

The Detroit Tigers announced yesterday that Garver had signed a 1953 contract. But General Manager Charlie Gehringer disclosed it was a provisional contract.

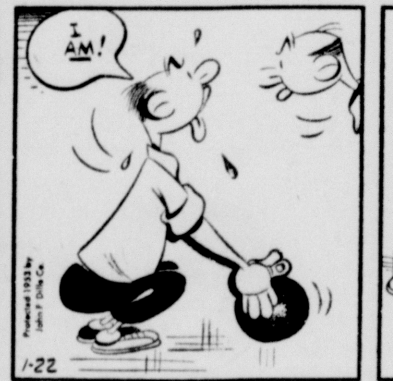

"It called for him to take a cut in salary until we discover if his pitching arm has recovered," said Gehringer.

"If he can prove to us by the end of spring training that he can pitch, we will tear up this contract and give him a new one calling for the same pay he received last season."

But after pitching and winning one game soon after the swap, Garver sat out the rest of the season with a sore arm.

Garver wrote Gehringer that his arm "feels okay" this year. He was the 11th Tiger to ink a 1953 contract.

Cards Pitching Staff Has Impressive Look

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—When Casey Stengel and Charlie Dressen got together during the World Series, who do you think they were discussing? The St. Louis Cardinals.

"Wait until you get a look at this Miller (Stu Miller), the Cardinals' young righthander," exclaimed the Brooklyn manager. "He doesn't have a fast ball to speak of, but he's got 20 different varieties of speeds. He ties himself in knots when he throws, you never know where the ball is coming from. When our guys had their first look at him, they licked their lips and ran for a bat. They came back muttering to themselves, 'You never saw a ball do so many tricks.'"

Other Young Stars
Casey and his New York Yankees undoubtedly will see a lot of the 25-year-old Miller this spring when the world champions and Cardinals play five exhibition games. The Yankees also will see several other young St. Louis pitchers who, according to Manager Eddie Stanky, will make his Redbirds a strong contender for the National League pennant.

Said Eddie, "We have the finest young pitching staff in the circuit and in Alpha Brazil and Eddie Yuhus we own the best bullpen in either league."

Miller was a sensation after coming up from Columbus in August. He debuted with a 1-0 triumph and went on to hang up a 6-3 record, posting a 2.03 earned run average, the best in the league.

Harvey Haddix, a little 27-year-old lefthander, came out of the service in time to register a 2-2 mark but burned in an excellent 2.79 ERA, striking out 31 batters in 42 innings. Mike Clark, up from Houston, had a 2-0 mark.

Other freshmen pitchers include Dennis Reeder (20-6); John Crimian (8-3), and John Faszholz (15-8).

First base and third base, Stanky admits, are the Cardinals' big problems. The little skipper has four new first basemen, if you can call Steve Bilko new.

Bilko, who always hits well in the minors but looks anything but impressive in the big time, is getting his last chance in the big leagues. Jim Beavers and Neal Hertweck, a couple of 22-year-olds are at least a year or two away. Grant Dunlap (.333 at Shreveport), the Texas League batting champ, is 29 and not rated a power hitter.

Ray Jablonski, a 26-year-old slugger from Rochester, is slated to vie with veteran Billy Johnson for the regular third base berth. Tagged as a good-hit no-field guy, Jablonski is one of Stanky's best prospects. He and outfielder R.P. Repulski are counted on to win regular jobs. Jablonski batted .299 but slammed 18 homers and drove in 103 runs. Repulski, a finished fielder, batted .296 with the Red Wings, hit 13 homers and drove in 65 runs.

Dick Rand, 21-year-old catcher is given a good chance to win the understudy job to Del Rice, considered by many as the best receiver in baseball. Rand's mark at Columbus, O., was .256.

Davey Scouts Gavilan On TV

CHICAGO (AP)—Chuck Davey scouted Kid Gavilan by television Wednesday night.

"It was a good fight," said undefeated Davey.

That's all the comment the guy would give about Gavilan's decision over Vic Cardell in Washington.

Davey and champion Gavilan will meet in a welterweight title bout at Chicago Stadium Feb. 11.

Davey boxed five rounds Wednesday, including three with lightweight Orlando Zulueta. Zulueta is a fellow Cuban, bosom pal and former stablemate of Gavilan.

Zulueta's trainer, Chickie Ferrari, says "Zulueta is a good imitator of Gavilan's style, bolo punch and all. If Gavilan is Davey's superior, nothing will help Davey, no matter how many rounds he spars with Zulueta."

Demaret won $1,500, and Hogan, Mangrum and Turnesa $616.66 apiece.

The rundown behind the first four went like this: Cary Middlecoff, 204, got $450; Doug Ford, 205, $400; Byron Nelson, Dutch Harrison, Ed Oliver, Jerry Barber and Johnny Bulla, tied at 206, $260 apiece, and Julius Boros, Tommy Bolt and Jimmy Clark, $133.

LANSING (AP)—Legislation to impose speed limits on Michigan highways was filed today by Republican freshman Senator Robert E. Faulkner of Coloma.

Faulkner would impose a limit of 65 miles an hour in daylight hours and 55 miles an hour at night. Michigan has had no speed limit for many years, instead requiring motorists to have their vehicles under control at all times.

Rep. Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron) filed a bill to permit townships of 5,000 or more population to contract with cities for water for fire protection and domestic use.
